Cigarette Tax Hike Proposed To Fund Fieldhouse, State Building

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Government and Military Affairs Committee Thursday proposed that the state finance a new state office building and a new University of Nebraska fieldhouse with a five-cent hike in the state cigarette tax.

Meanwhile, Sen. Terry Carpenter, the committee's chairman, outlined a plan of his own to take the new headquarters building constructed for educational television and use it for a new NU College of Law facility.

The ETV building is located on NU's East Campus.

The proposal to use cigarette tax funds to finance a new joint-use fieldhouse — which would be constructed on the State Fairgrounds and utilized by the State Fair — was endorsed after an appearance before the committee by NU Athletic Director Bob Devaney.

13 Cents A Pack

A five-cent tax hike, raising the cigarette levy to 13 cents a pack, would net the state about $6.9 million a year. The additional funds would be allocated evenly between the office building and the fieldhouse.

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, sponsor of the bill, LB87, said that plan would raise sufficient funds for the office building in four years.

Luedtke had originally proposed only a three-cent tax increase with allocation of all additional revenue for construction of the long-proposed, but unfunded, state office facility.

Amendment Accepted

But he quickly accepted an amendment from Carpenter hiking the tax an additional two cents and dividing revenue from the total five-cent boost evenly between the two projects.

Devaney hesitated to put a price tag on the fieldhouse pending further studies, but he said "we would want to construct a building you could be proud of."

The fieldhouse could be widely used for public events other than the State Fair, he noted. It would be used by the university for basketball, for football practice sessions and for other sports.

Once it was ready, Devaney said, the Coliseum could be turned over to full-time use for intramural athletics. Such a facility is "badly needed," he said.

The committee sent the amended version of LB87 to the floor on a 5-0 vote, with two members of the committee present and not voting.

Carpenter said he will seek permission for Devaney to address the Legislature at a later date to explain the proposal.

Luedtke had suggested that the committee decline to pay cigarette wholesalers the usual 5% discount on the increased tax take, thus raising the revenue yield on a five-cent hike by nearly $400,000.

Committee Proposals

But the committee proposed that the state either provide a 5% discount (for affixing and canceling tax stamps) on the full tax take or assume the task of affixing stamps on its own.

Edward Zorinsky of Omaha, speaking for the Nebraska Tobacco Association, opposed the bill, directing his strongest fire at the proposal to deny wholesalers the 5% discount on any tax increase.

Zorinsky said he can "see a need for these buildings." Strangely, he said, he has "never heard a smoker protest" proposed increases in the excise tax "and it is not my job to carry their banner."

'One Of Most Taxed'

Still, he said, "we are one of the most taxed industries in the state . . . and I want to raise the caution flag on just how far we can go."

Speaking in opposition to Devaney, he opined, is like "speaking against motherhood."

Devaney said the Coliseum does not now provide sufficient seating for basketball or other sports, and there is "a definite need" for an improved and enlarged facility.

But the fieldhouse would be more than a university athletic facility, he told the committee. "It would be a building for the state to use," he said.

Carpenter, who discussed the proposal with Devaney at lunch prior to the committee meeting, said the football coach has "done more than anyone to bring us national attention and what he asks for is acceptable."

If the fieldhouse is financed with cigarette tax revenue, Zorinsky quipped to Devaney, it might not be fair to install "No Smoking" signs in the facility.

Carpenter told newsmen following the meeting that he has requested an inspection of the new ETV facility to see if it could be used to house the College of Law.

Not As Important

ETV, he said, is "not as important as I once thought it was" and the Law College is now using an "inadequate" facility on the city campus.

"I have no final report on the investigation, but I believe the ETV building will be acceptable, usable and practical," Carpenter said.

If ETV needs expanded facilities, he suggested, it can move some of its operation into the old Law College building.

PUBLIC FAVORS CLEMENCY . . .

Nixon Sets Calley Free Of Stockade

Ft. Benning, Ga. (AP) — Lt. William L. Calley Jr. walked out of the Ft. Benning stockade Thursday night, released by order of President Nixon pending appeal of his conviction for murder at My Lai.

The 27-year-old Calley, blinking in the glare of television lights, left the stockade a little more than 24 hours after he was sentenced to life imprisonment.

About 75 onlookers applauded as Calley emerged.

The phalanx of military policemen who have escorted Calley outside the stockade for the past four days were gone, replaced by a single uniformed guard.

Full Pay

In Washington, a Defense Department spokesman said Calley would continue to receive full pay until all his appeals are exhausted.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon acted as President, rather than as commander-in-chief. "This is not a legal step, it was taken at the President's discretion."

Ziegler said the chief executive felt personally that Calley should not continue in the stockade, or go to the military prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., until reviews and possible appeals of his conviction have been completed.

Murder

Calley, 27, was convicted Monday of the premeditated murder of at least 22 civilians at My Lai, South Vietnam, March 16, 1968. The same jury sentenced him Wednesday to life imprisonment at hard labor. The action touched off a nationwide groundswell of opposition, in the form of offers of money, demonstrations and letters of protest.

News of the President's action drew applause and cheers in Washington from House members who were in the middle of a debate on extension of the draft.

A Kansas City construction worker, Gene Anderson, said, "I think it's wonderful, a wonderful thing." After Calley had been convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment Anderson had commented: "Up to now, I've been proud of the 4½ years I had in the Navy. I'm no longer proud."

CLU Man Favorable

John Roemer, executive director of the Maryland American Civil Liberties Union, said, "Our organization is generally in favor of keeping defendants free until some final judicial decision is made. Calley is no exception; I see no reason why he shouldn't be released pending a review."

Before Nixon's action was announced, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., suggested the President appoint a panel of "distinguished citizens" to review Calley's case and to provide a "speedy review and a thoughtful review that would have some credibility."

Reaction across the country had been running strongly against the verdict

Telegrams, Letters

More than 1,200 telegrams were delivered Thursday morning to the courthouse at Ft. Benning and thousands of letters were delivered to Calley's apartment. Most were believed to support the soldier.

Radio Station WLIL in Lenoir City, Tenn., said it had received 1,137 telephone calls in a 2½-hour period following Calley's conviction. All but one, the station said, denounced the jury's verdict.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, in an interview with the Chicago Tribune, refused to comment specifically on the Calley case, but said conditions during a military operation "are not subject to Monday morning quarterback judgments."

Gov. Edgar D. Whitcomb of Indiana, a decorated World War II veteran, ordered all state flags flown at half-staff to protest the conviction and sentencing.

The Arkansas Senate and House approved a resolution asking Nixon to grant Calley executive clemency. The Kansas House adopted a resolution urging that Calley be freed.

Support from individuals took several forms. Edgar M. Nobles, a member of the Houston County, Ga., draft board offered to serve a day in Calley's place and urged others to do the same.

Audie Murphy, who killed an estimated 240 enemy troops in World War II and was the most decorated American soldier of the war, said, "I'm not so sure that in those days, having been indoctrinated to a fever pitch, I might not have committed the same error — and I prefer to call it an error — that Lt. Calley did."

Jessore In Hands Of East Pakistan

. . . 12 WESTERNERS SLAIN

New Delhi (AP) — Rebel forces in East Pakistan captured Thursday the key city of Jessore 80 milees southwest of Dacca, the provincial capital, newsmen returning from the scene reported.

The Pakistan government charged it has reports of armed Indians infiltrating border areas of East Pakistan to join the secessionist forces. An Indian Foreign Office spokesman in New Delhi denied the charge.

No Soldiers Seen

"We went all over the town freely," said a Swedish reporter who returned to India after visiting Jessore with several other correspondents. "There wasn't a Punjabi soldier in sight. It is liberated, or whatever you call it."

Reporters said they saw East Pakistan civilians cut down at least 12 West Pakistani businessmen with spears and knives on the streets of Jessore.

They said all businesses were closed and no women or children were in sight.

Bus loads of Bengalis from rural areas were coming into the city to join the fight against the Pakistan army, witnesses said.

The reports said forces loyal to breakaway leader Sheik Mujibur Rahman battled for three hours with Pakistan soldiers occupying strategic points in the city of about 300,000.

Units Retreat

West Pakistani units, the reports said, retreated to a camp about a mile from town where they began shelling suspected concentrations of resistance fighters. Witnesses said civilians had already been evacuated and the artillery did little damage.

However, the official Radio Pakistan continued to maintain that President Agha Mohammed Yahya Kahn's government had crushed the rebellion.

"All major towns, including Dacca and Chittagong, and the entire countryside in East Pakistan, continue to be calm today and there is no report of any incident," the radio said.

Rural Control

Other reports from along India's 1,349-mile border with East Pakistan, however, indicated Mujib's forces still control many rural areas.

N. C. Sengupta, the chief secretary of India's West Bengal State, said 17 West Pakistani soldiers had surrendered to Indian forces along the border.

Sengupta said the Pakistani soldiers would be tried for illegally entering the country. He added, however, that any distressed East Pakistanis coming into India would be given relief. Official sources have said more than 1,000 persons have already sought refuge.

Go-Ahead Unofficial

While Indian officials deny armed infiltrators are moving into the fighting zones from India, young Indians have been given an unofficial go-ahead if they wish to join the Bengali forces.

An Indian official said, "If and when action would have to be taken by the government," regarding Indian infiltration of East Pakistan, "we would not want to throttle opinion."

The peoples on both sides of the Indian border are Bengalis, and youths on the Indian side have held demonstrations pledging support to the East Pakistani independence movement led by Mujib.

Dependents Will Leave East Pakistan

Washington (AP) — A State Department spokesman said Thursday dependents of all official American personnel in East Pakistan will be evacuated by U.S. military aircraft.

Press officer Charles Bray said private Americans in Dacca and elsewhere in East Pakistan also will be offered facilities to leave on a voluntary basis.

However, the United States will continue to maintain an official presence of substantial size in Dacca where its consulate-general is located.

There are roughly 80 official Americans in East Pakistan, Bray said, and some 1,000 private citizens.

Arrangements for the U.S. military aircraft to call at East Pakistan airport on the basis of one flight daily are expected to begin in a day or two, Bray said. It is understood Britain also will begin to operate a daily flight to remove its nationals.

Bicycle Crash Fatal To Boy

A rural Lincoln boy was killed Thursday afternoon when the bicycle he was riding was struck head-on by a car approximately eight miles west of Lincoln on U.S 6, according to the Lancaster County Sheriff's Office.

Officials said Darron Tilman, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. U. Tilman, was killed when he was struck by a westbound car driven by Richard Smith also of rural Lincoln.

Apparently he was just coming onto the road from his driveway when the accident occurred, officials said.

The death raises Nebraska's 1971 highway death toll to 63, compared with 71 on the same date a year ago.

JOHN, THE BELOVED APOSTLE . . .

Ten Who Knew Jesus

JOHN, Who Dearly Loved Him.

Third of a Series
By JOHN J. STEWART

By Mary's side there at the foot of the cross on Calvary, stood John, the beloved apostle

Jesus, concerned to the last about the welfare of His sorrowing mother, did what little He could for her. Through feverish lips He commended her to the care of John. "Woman, behold thy son," He muttered. And to John, "Behold thy mother."

Yes, surely John would do all that he could to care for this precious woman who had given birth to Jesus, the Master, and who had suffered so dreadfully in this dark hour.

In his death upon the cross, Jesus the Christ, the Son of God, became the Redeemer of the world, the Saviour of all mankind.

Yet to John, as to His other disciples, this appeared to be no hour of victory for Jesus, but rather a dark and dismal hour of defeat. As he led the weeping Mary away, he himself walked in a stupor, numb with shock and grief.

John, with the other apostles, had been unable to believe Jesus when He told them that He must give His life. He, with the others, had insisted to the last that Jesus would soon become the King of Israel, a great political ruler. They were confident to the last that He would triumph over His enemies and be enthroned in power, and they with Him.

But now Jesus was dead. Instead of being enthroned in power He had been ruthlessly, cruelly put to death upon a cross. The words of warning which He had spoken to them, and which they had refused to believe, had been literally fulfilled.

At the last supper the night before, John along with the other apostles had debated which of them would be the greatest when Jesus came into power. Jesus in sorrow had quietly rebuked them for their vanity, saying, "Let him who is greatest among you be the servant of all."

John and his brother James and their mother had once even gone to Jesus in private, requesting that the two brothers might sit on His right hand and on His left when Jesus came into power.

How vain their request, which Jesus had declined to grant. In the kingdom of heaven, it was not a question of power, but of service, to show true love for others. And with the death of the Master, John the Beloved did embark upon a life of service, even requesting the privilege of tarrying upon the earth without death so that he might help bring souls unto Christ.

Cigarette Tax Hike Proposed To Fund Fieldhouse, State Building

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Government and Miitary Affairs Committee Thursday proposed that the state finance a new state office building and a new University of Nebraska fieldhouse with a five-cent hike in the state cigarette tax.

Meanwhile, Sen. Terry Carpenter, the committee's chairman, outlined a plan of his own to take the new headquarters building constructed for educational television and use it for a new NU College of Law facility.

The ETV building is located on NU's East Campus.

The proposal to use cigarette tax funds to finance a new joint-use fieldhouse — which would be constructed on the State Fairgrounds and utilized by the State Fair — was endorsed after an appearance before the committee by NU Athletic Director Bob Devaney.

13 Cents A Pack

A five-cent tax hike, raising the cigarette levy to 13 cents a pack, would net the state about $6.9 million a year. The additional funds would be allocated evenly between the office building and the fieldhouse.

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, sponsor of the bill, LB87, said that plan would raise sufficient funds for the office building in four years.

The committee sent the amended version of LB87 to the floor on a 5-0 vote, with two members of the committee present and not voting.

Carpenter said he will seek permission for Devaney to address the Legislature at a later date to explain the proposal.

Luedtke had suggested that the committee decline to pay cigarette wholesalers the usual 5% discount on the increased tax take, thus raising the revenue yield on a five-cent hike by nearly $400,000.

Committee Proposals

But the committee proposed that the state either provide a 5% discount (for affixing and canceling tax stamps) on the full tax take or assume the task of affixing stamps on its own.

Edward Zorinsky of Omaha, speaking for the Nebraska Tobacco Association, opposed the bill, directing his strongest fire at the proposal to deny wholesalers the 5% discount on any tax increase.

Zorinsky said he can "see a need for these buildings." Strangely, he said, he has "never heard a smoker protest" proposed increases in the excise tax "and it is not my job to carry their banner."

Still, he said, "we are one of the most taxed industries in the state . . . and I want to raise the caution flag on just how far we can go."

Speaking in opposition to Devaney, he opined, is like "speaking against motherhood."

JOHN, THE BELOVED APOSTLE . . .

By Mary's side there at the foot of the cross on Calvary, stood John, the beloved apostle.

Jesus, concerned to the last about the welfare of His sorrowing mother, did what little He could for her. Through feverish lips He commended her to the care of John. "Woman, behold thy son," He muttered. And to John, "Behold thy mother."

Yes, surely John would do all that he could to care for this precious woman who had given birth to Jesus, the Master, and who had suffered so dreadfully in this dark hour.

In his death upon the cross, Jesus the Christ, the Son of God, became the Redeemer of the world, the Saviour of all mankind.

Yet to John, as to His other disciples, this appeared to be no hour of victory for Jesus, but rather a dark and dismal hour of defeat. As he led the weeping Mary away, he himself walked in a stupor, numb with shock and grief.

John, with the other apostles, had been unable to believe Jesus when He told them that He must give His life. He, with the others, had insisted to the last that Jesus would soon become the King of Israel, a great political ruler. They were confident to the last that He would triumph over His enemies and be enthroned in power, and they with Him.

But now jesus was dead. Instead of being enthroned in power He had been ruthlessly, cruelly put to death upon a cross. The words of warning which He had spoken to them, and which they had refused to believe, had been literally fulfilled.

At the last supper the night before, John along with the other apostles had debated which of them would be the greatest when Jesus came into power. Jesus in sorrow had quietly rebuked them for their vanity, saying, "Let him who is greatest among you be the servant of all."

John and his brother James and their mother had once even gone to Jesus in private, requesting that the two brothers might sit on His right hand and on His left when Jesus came into power.

How vain their request, which Jesus had declined to grant. In the kingdom of heaven, it was not a question of power, but of service, to show true love for others. And with the death of the Master, John the Beloved did embark upon a life of service, even requesting the privilege of tarrying upon the earth without death so that he might help bring souls unto Christ.

Duc Duc 'North Vietnamese Version Of My Lai'

By STEWART KELLERMAN

Duc Duc, South Vietnam (UPI) — A Buddhist monk in brown robes stood solemnly praying for the dead. Around him were fresh mounds of yellow-brown earth — barren unmarked graves.

A field-grade U.S. Army officer surveyed the wreckage at Duc Duc Thursday and said, "Well, this is the North Vietnamese version of My Lai."

The people of Duc Duc mourned Thursday and dazedly went about rebuilding their shattered town.

It Seems Senseless

They tried to make sense of it all, but the harder they tried the more senseless it all seemed.

They sat around listlessly before the wreckage of home. Or patted the earth covering the bodies of their dead relatives. Or stared at the newsmen arriving to see their misery.

Cool breezes blew through their open windows Sunday night when the 15,000 people of Duc Duc went to sleep after a day of work in the rice paddies and lumber mills that provide most with a living at the Vietnamese poverty level.

Almost all were fast asleep at 3 a.m. when the first Communist mortars hit the local militia outpost on the outskirts of the town.

Mortars and rockets began falling everywhere and the people of Duc Duc ran for basement bunkers or crawled under beds and tables.

World News

Then the Communist sappers came, tearing through the wire perimeter and fighting through the two companies — about 100 men — of militia troops guarding the town.

The sappers ran through the center of Duc Duc, screaming, shouting and tossing hand grenades into the town's adobe houses.

Crack Communist infantry troops then followed, throwing more grenades and hurling torches through the windows of the houses.

Whole families were burned to death in the houses or suffocated in the bunkers.

U.S. military advisers at Duc Duc said 1,500 Communists terrorized the town for 13 hours before finally being driven out by two companies of militia reinforcements and helicopter gunships.

120 Killed

U.S. officials said 100 townsmen and 20 militiamen were killed in the attack. Some 150 civilians and 51 soldiers were wounded. Six residents of Duc Duc were listed as missing.

They said 400 houses were destroyed and 100 badly damaged. Some 1,800 persons were homeless. Vietnamese military officials said at least 1,500 houses were destroyed in the attack.

U.S. spokesmen said 59 Communist bodies were found and an estimated 150 dead and wounded were carried away by the attackers.

A helicopter pilot, who flew over the town Thursday, said: "God, it looks as though it was hit by an atomic bomb."

A 200-by-200-yard segment in the center of Duc Duc was leveled during the attack. All that remained was rubble of buildings, charred ground and fragments of mortars and rockets.

The homeless picked their way through the wreckage of buildings where they once lived, trying to salvage scraps of food, a few pieces of clothing and maybe even a blanket if they were lucky.

The U.S. military in Da Nang, 20 miles to the northeast, loaded a convoy of trucks with emergency food and clothing for the homeless.

The wired-in compound for the handful of U.S. advisers at Duc Duc was not hit by the attackers. The South Vietnamese military advisory compound nearby received only minor damage from rockets.

Wholesale Prices Ease Off

Washington (AP) — The rise in prices of wholesale food and industrial goods eased in March, and White House economists said Thursday "We are quite pleased with the industrial commodities."

A sharp drop in farm prices that partially offset two previous months of big increases was primarily responsible for the relatively moderate rise of two-tenths of one per cent in the government's Wholesale Price Index.

The increase in prices of industrial raw materials and manufactured goods rose 0.3%, which the Nixon administration spokesman described as a continuation of slowing cost hikes.

Seattle, Wash. (UPI) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto of San Francisco and three former Washington state officials pleaded innocent Thursday to federal charges of bribery and mail fraud.

Alioto wants his trial moved to San Francisco.

2-Year Draft Extension, Pay Hike OKd In House

Washington (UPI) — The House voted Thursday to extend the draft for two years, but to encourage an all-volunteer army with the biggest military pay raise in history.

The full, two-year extension of the Selective Service Act to mid-1973 was a setback to antiwar members who went all out to eliminate it or at least approve a shorter extension.

But still opponents of the war made their strongest showing so far in the House during the two-day debate over the draft and whether it should be used to force young Americans to go fight in Indochina.

On final passage, the vote was 293 to 99 and two members voting present. Nearly all the opposition came from those who wanted to cut off the draft as a means of trying to end the war.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a record $2.7 billion increase — three times what President Nixon requested — after repeatedly voting down proposals that would have had the effect of ending U.S. involvement in the war in southeast Asia.

The bill also would give the President discretionary authority to end undergraduate student deferments retroactive to April 23 and would grant his request for a national lottery call each month that would ensure relatively equal draft liability throughout the country.

The two-year extension of the draft was the hardest fought provision in the measure. War critics claimed the draft perpetuated the war, which they called immoral and illegal.

Earlier in the day, members, hearing complaints that draft dodgers were using conscientious objector status to avoid military duty, voted to extend from two to three years they must serve in nonmilitary service.

The pay raises in the bill are expected to come under close scrutiny in the Senate, as is the provision to phase out undergraduate deferments.

Minimum Wage Hike Urged

Washington (AP) — House Democrats, saying the war on poverty is being lost, opened a drive Thursday for a two-step increase in the minimum wage from $1.60 an hour to $2.

Speaker Carl Albert promised speedy action on the legislation, which also would extend federal minimum wage protection to an estimated seven million state and local employes.

Although Congress last raised the minimum wage in 1966, when it was $1.25, the final step to $1.60 went into effect just eight weeks ago in some industries.

Scott Says Demo Critics Of War Rooting For Other Side

Washington (UPI) — Senate Republicans unleashed a partisan counter-attack against Democratic war critics Thursday, accusing them of harping, carping, sniping, and "rooting for the other side."

A half-dozen senators, led by Republican leader Hugh Scott, rose after the opening buzzer to serve notice they would begin following Democratic critics to the floor and rebut their charges on the spot. They accused them of playing politics with Vietnam.

Scott said he would no longer permit the Senate's "sheep herd left" and "neo-isolationists" to go unchallenged.

Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, himself a critic of the war, said he was "sick and tired" of Democrats "playing politics" with the war.

The outburst followed passage by Democratic caucuses in both the House and Senate of resolutions urging total withdrawal from Indochina.

A spokesman for Scott said President Nixon called the minority leader earlier this week to thank him for defending the White House from criticism by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Scott decided that no future challenges to Vietnam policies would be left unanswered.

Scott said he would not "permit any senator in this chamber to prey on the emotions of the day and grab for the headlines by using snappy, eye-catching language, while being loose with the facts."

"It appears to me, as one of our nation's major news magazines reported on the war this week," he said, "that some are really rooting for the other side. If they are, they are giving comfort to the enemy and crying the same line of Moscow, Peking and Hanoi."

Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., blasted the "shocking display of intemperate criticism and carping directed both at our country and its allies."

Three freshmen senators joined in. Sen. Lowell Weicker Jr., R-Conn., blasted "irresponsible scrambling" among Democrats. Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., charged "a dirty and ugly campaign to discredit the President of the United States. Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio, said it was "almost humourous to listen to the harping of some of my Democratic colleagues."

Senate Democrats for the time being made no effort to answer the criticism.

South Vietnamese Recapture Fire Base Near Laos

Saigon (AP) — South Vietnamese troops were reported Friday to have recaptured an artillery post near the Laos border after two days of furious fighting.

A Saigon military spokesman said South Vietnamese forces took back the base late Thursday from the regiment of North Vietnamese regulars which had driven them out the day before.

The spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, said bodies of more than 200 North Vietnamese were counted around the base, in the central highlands six miles east of the Laos frontier.

Field reports indicated about 20 Saigon troops were killed and 25 were wounded from among the 350 defenders of Fire Base Six.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command reported 58 Americans killed in combat last week, the highest death toll in a month, and 542 Americans wounded, the highest in six months. Figures for the previous week were 54 killed and 335 wounded.

The South Vietnamese also reported an increase in casualties last week, with 756 killed in action and 1,726 wounded. Figures for the week before were 630 killed and 1,760 wounded. The allied commands reported 3,574 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed last week, compared to 5,819 the previous week.

Minard Trial Security Precautions Are Strict

By WILLIAM A. STEPHENS

Omaha (UPI) — The murder ial of two militant Negroes arged with planting a booby ap bomb which killed a liceman started here Thurs-ay amid security precautions hich may be the strictest in ebraska court history.

Richard Poindexter, 26, and avid Rice, 23, are accused of lanting three sticks of ynamite in a suitcase, leaving in a vacant house, and arranging to have a 15-year-old acquaintance phone police that a lady was being dragged screaming into the residence.

Patrolman Larry Minard was one of the policemen to answer the call. He apparently touched or tried to pick up the suitcase and was killed instantly by the blast. Seven other policemen were injured.

The reason for the extreme security precautions, according to one sheriff's deputy, was because authorities "wanted to avoid another Los Angeles."

Everyone going into the courtroom was frisked by sheriff's deputies and matrons. Women with long hair had their locks inspected. If they wore long boots, they took them off to be inspected.

Locks on the courtroom doors were changed a few minutes prior to the trial. Spectators could not enter until the trial was ready to begin.

Special Passes

Even members of the news media were issued special passes. Some of them were shaken down, too, however.

Among those testifying Thursday afternoon was John Tess, an Omaha patrolman wounded in the explosion. He told of entering the house and stepping over the suitcase in the doorway.

"The house was dusty, but I noticed the suitcase was clean and this made me suspicious," Tess said.

"I was looking over the rooms with a flashlight and was slower in getting out than Minard was. Then there was this explosion."

Tess said he was 12 to 15 feet behind Minard when the blast occurred.

"The building was demolished and I was buried under the debris," Tess added. "I called out that my legs were hurt and three policemen came in to help me."

Peak 'Key Witness'

Special prosecutor Arthur O'Leary said in opening arguments both Rice and Poindexter were equally guilty of first degree murder. He indicated the key witness would be Duane Peak, the youth who allegedly made the phone call.

O'Leary said Peak would tell of fashioning the crude bomb "to blow up the racist pigs—members of the Omaha Police Department."

Evidence would also show traces of dynamite were found on clothing worn by the two defendants, the prosecution said. said.

Defense attorney Tom Kenney said he would attempt to discredit Peak's testimony as "a masterpiece of a very pregnant imagination." He said Peak, now 16, grew up in bad company and used marijuana and other narcotics.

"This young man had no love for whites in general and especially for the Omaha Police Department,'' Kenney asserted.

Another defense attorney, Dave Herzog, said the Douglas County attorney's office had made "a deal" for Peak to testify against Rice.

"The currency is the life of Duane Peak in exchange for the life of my client," Herzog said.

Rice and Poindexter were members of the Omaha chapter of the national committee to combat fascism, an outgrowth of the Black Panthers.

Heading the defense for Poindexter was former Nebraska three-term Gov. Frank B. Morrison.

Minard Trial Security Precautions Are Strict

Nebraska News

By WILLIAM A. STEPHENS

Omaha (UPI) — The murder trial of two militant Negroes charged with planting a booby trap bomb which killed a policeman started here Thursday amid security precautions which may be the strictest in Nebraska court history.

Richard Poindexter, 26, and David Rice, 23, are accused of planting three sticks of dynamite in a suitcase, leaving it in a vacant house, and arranging to have a 15-year-old acquaintance phone police that a lady was being dragged screaming into the residence.

Patrolman Larry Minard was one of the policemen to answer the call. He apparently touched or tried to pick up the suitcase and was killed instantly by the blast. Seven other policemen were injured.

The reason for the extreme security precautions, according to one sheriff's deputy, was because authorities "wanted to avoid another Los Angeles."

Everyone going into the courtroom was frisked by sheriff's deputies and matrons. Women with long hair had their locks inspected. If they wore long boots, they took them off to be inspected.

Locks on the courtroom doors were changed a few minutes prior to the trial. Spectators could not enter until the trial was ready to begin.

Special Passes

Even members of the news media were issued special passes. Some of them were shaken down, too, however.

Among those testifying Thursday afternoon was John Tess, an Omaha patrolman wounded in the explosion. He told of entering the house and stepping over the suitcase in the doorway.

"I was looking over the rooms with a flashlight and was slower in getting out than Minard was. Then there was this explosion."

Tess said he was 12 to 15 feet behind Minard when the blast occurred.

"The building was demolished and I was buried under the debris," Tess added. "I called out that my legs were hurt and three policemen came in to help me."

Anyone who doesn't know by now of the formation of the Arnott R. Folsom Zoological Society has either been out of town a long time or is not very alert. The society has been actively engaged in the launching of a membership drive, highlighted by a charter membership dinner last Wednesday evening.

The concentrated drive will run through April 10, although anyone can become a charter member by joining prior to the May 31 opening of the Lincoln Children's Zoo. The Children's Zoo is the major activity of the society.

It goes without saying, of course, that the society needs and deserves the support of the people of Lincoln through their membership contributions. The operation now runs at an annual deficit of approximately $6,000, a loss that cannot continue to be made up out of reserves.

The zoo has proven to be one of the finest attractions in the city of Lincoln and has gained renown throughout the country. It is inconceivable that the response to the need for society memberships will be anything but generous and enthusiastic.

Speaking at the charter membership dinner was one of the foremost zoologists of the world, Dr. Charles Schroeder who is director of the San Diego Zoological Garden. Dr. Schroeder was pleased with the Lincoln Children's Zoo but he was critical of the fact that it is open for only three months out of the year.

That is a mark of a man outstanding in his field — to give you a challenge — and the one he has given the society is a worthy one. The organization might well examine the possibilities of at least limited winter usage of the zoo layout.

The climatic and economical difficulties of this are obvious but nothing worth doing is ever easy. Also, the Children's Zoo does operate its ark on a year-around basis, a traveling miniature zoo that has served a unique education and entertainment purpose and found a highly favorable response.

Mention of education again returns us to Dr. Schroeder. At the charter membership dinner, he spoke of education as the basic reason for existence of zoos, entertainment being another important element.

What sort of education does one think about when he contemplates a zoo? Dr. Schroeder noted that there are some 1.5 million species of animals and 2.5 million species of plants.

This is a vital element of the total environment in which we live. Zoos are basically involved with the plants and animals of the world and through these they can give to all their patrons a much better understanding of the complicated world of nature.

An understanding of nature would have to mean an appreciation of nature and that, in turn, would mean the conservation of our environment. A zoo can clearly demonstrate the relationships that exist between animals, plants, air, water and man and these together spell out ecology.

A young boy or girl who comes to understand nature automatically knows that the wanton destruction of anything is an insult to human intelligence. He or she comes to understand that it is in our relationships with one another and with other forms of life that we find our well-being.

God was generous, of course, and nature is plentiful and this has brought humanity to a dangerous point of carelessness and indifference. We have killed off many species of plants and animals, polluted our air and water and desecrated our land.

Up to now, we have not noticed much of any consequences of this because of the relentless cycle of renewal that is a part of our natural surroundings. But now we know that we can go too far. We know that continued abuse of our environment slows and would eventually stop the renewal process, leaving us with a barren and uninhabitable wasteland.

Our zoos can be a vital cog in telling this story — a story that might be called the natural theory of relativity. With your membership support, the Lincoln Children's Zoo will be one such institution.

Hizzoner, Richard Daley, Seems Sure Of Re-election

WASHINGTON — Some call him "Hizzoner," "duh mare" and "duh leader." Others call him an "anachronism" and the "last of the old-time political bosses." But no matter what outsiders may say, Chicagoans appear ready to once again elect Richard J. Daley as mayor of the midwestern metropolis for an unprecedented fifth time.

From his fifth-floor office in the Chicago City Hall, Daley's influence stretches across Illinois and into the upper reaches of the National Democratic Party. At 68, he has outlasted four presidents, four governors and four challengers for his job. "I don't even go to the bathroom without checking first (with Daley)," one Chicago congressman has said.

Richard E. Friedman, a 41-year-old Democratic independent running with Republican organization support, is generally regarded as Mayor Daley's most articulate opponent. A slim bon vivant with a license to pilot balloons, Friedman is a former prosecutor and executive director of the watchdog Better Government Association. He charges that "City Hall machine politicans manipulate the people, who are fed up with the waste of tax dollars and unresponsiveness of government."

Announcing that he would be a candidate for re-election last Dec. 17, Daley told cheering admirers: "I pledge, as I did to my mother and father, to give all my heart, strength and efforts to the city I love." One Daleyite said the mayor "has illuminated both our streets and our alleys, and with this announcement today, he has illuminated our hearts."

One of the keys to Daley's success is the fact that he was born in the old Irish Bridgeport neighborhood, which has produced the mayors who have governed the city for four decades. It's an area where nearly every family has somebody on a government payroll — and where the mayor still lives unpretentiously.

In 1955, the Democrats faced a problem. They had previously elected Martin Kennelly, a businessman, as mayor but, surprisingly, he had turned out to be a reformer. Outraged, they dumped him for Daley, who by then had risen to Cook County clerk and a power in the Democratic machine. He won the election by 126,667 votes — and has never since been headed. Last time out — in 1967 — Daley captured 74 per cent of the vote.

But Daley is more than an interesting relic. He is regarded in some quarters as the most knowledgeable and effective big city mayor in the nation. "Daley can do more in Chicago with the crook of his little finger than Lindsay can in New York in twelve hours of work," states one writer.

But some authorities say running a city is more than putting up new buildings and expressways and keeping the streets clean. "More and more mayors are being judged by the ambience they create—the moral tone, social awareness, and sense of identity with the city they inspire," states Andrew Hacker, professor of government at Cornell. "In this area, Richard Daley is a bad mayor."

Daley has a ready answer for such critics. Notes Mike Royko in his book, Boss: Richard J. Daley of Chicago (1971) "Daley has often said to confidants, 'What in hell do the experts know?'" He's been running a big city by the seat of his pants in some of the toughest years American cities have seen.

City Sales Tax Repeal

It probably was a mistake, back in 1969, for the Legislature to authorize cities to implement a sales tax of up to one percent if they so desired. The better alternative might have been to raise the state sales tax rate by a half percent and rebate revenues back to the locals.

At any rate, advantage of the optional sales tax law was taken in two instances—Lincoln, which levies a one-half percent city sales tax that brought in $1,731,261 in 1970 and Omaha, which started with a half percent jumping to one percent, raising a total of $5,726,440 in sales tax revenues last year. Those cities now have programs built around that expected revenue.

Wednesday, the Lgeislature's Revenue Committee voted to introduce a bill repealing the 1969 authorization for city sales taxes, which, at least as far as Lincoln and Omaha are concerned, would present a new twist in an ever-changing tax picture.

Backers of the proposal argue that the state should have maintained sole claim on the sales tax base once it abandoned the property tax field in 1967 and enacted sales and income tax laws. But in another light, the Revenue Committee would find it easier to sell an increase in the state sales tax rate—and it surely will come eventually—if Omahans and Lincolnites were not already shelling out for a city sales tax.

What would the two cities do if programs and services are to remain at the current level and the city sales tax law is repealed? Well, there is always a heavier reliance on the property tax. And, the cities could always seek authorization for an alternative method of raising revenue—for instance, an earnings tax, as Sen. Burbach of the Revenue Committee suggests, or, perhaps, a tax on intangible property.

An earnings tax, a more progressive method of taxation, might be a good answer. But, we are wondering if such authorization would come, even if asked for and whether people in either Omaha or Lincoln really want the tax system tampered with at present. The Legislature should take a hard look at repealing the optional sales tax law. It might have been a mistake, but not one that can't be lived with.

They Gotta Be Kiddin'

They gotta be kiddin' — they don't really believe that head football Coach Bob Devaney is a likely prospect for president of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. Maybe Devaney would be qualified, for all we know, although we suspect he is not.

But that is not the qeustion. The reason he is mentioned for the post is found in the assumption the popularity of his football program is such that the money coffers of the state would be opened to him for the entire university if he just spoke out for it.

We assume the suggestion is made facetiously, but there is a tone of seriousness in it from some quarters. Perhaps the idea is more of a satirical one. If so, it is a deep cutting piece of satire.

Perhaps it is the greatest insult that has ever been given state legislators. The thought that state senators would knock down every academic argument that came along and then completely capitulate for the sake of a word from the football coach is really out of this world.

We like football as well as the next guy. We are delighted that Nebraska football is No. 1, are excited about the start of spring practice and eager for the next fall season to roll around.

But we are not out of our minds on the subject. Academic matters are of first priority and Bob Devaney would agree, despite the jokes he likes to make along those lines.

Hopefully, it is an insult of the first order to suggest that football mania in Nebraska is greater than academic pride and responsibility. It it's not an insult, it is the truth and the suggestion of such stupidity is clearly out of line.

GOP Talk Of Campaign-Spending Reforms But Employ Behind-Scenes Delay Tactics

WASHINGTON — All the Republican talk about campaign-spending reforms has been so much pap for the public. For behind the scenes, GOP leaders have been holding up the reforms.

Their delaying tactics led to a shouting match between Senators John Pastore, D-R.I., and Marlow Cook, R-Ky., the other day behind closed doors of the Senate Commerce Committee.

The controversy was over reducing the Pikes Peak cost of political campaigns, particularly the high spending for television time.

Last year, President Nixon vetoed the first reform measure to pass Congress in 45 years. It would have allowed free broadcast time for presidential candidates and cut-rates for other candidates.

The effect would have been at least to reduce the indebtedness of political candidates to the big contributors, who invariably demand government favors in return for their contrbuions.

The President announced he was killing the measure because it wasn't comprehensive enough, and the Republicans promised to introduce more "comprehensive campaign-reform legislation" early this year.

They are now putting on a public show of supporting reform legislation, but they are doing their utmost in the backrooms to prevent it from coming to a vote.

Reason: the Republicans usually collect more campaign cash than the Democrats are able to scrape together. This gives them a campaign advantage they don't want to give up.

☆ ☆ ☆

In return for the big donations that are essential to finance their campaigns, too many elected officials are compelled to vote for the private interests which often are against the public interest.

The sad truth is that the American voter often can't be bothered to go to the polls, let alone give money.

Even the most honest congressmen, therefore, can't entirely escape doing business with the pressure groups. Those candidates who have tried to finance campaigns from small contributions have learned quickly that the fat cats are indispensable.

The attempt to produce a new bill that the President won't veto got off to a fast start. Pastore scheduled hearings on the radio-TV phase of the bill and issued invitations to everyone concerned to testify.

After four days of hearings, Pastore waited a week for additional comments, then closed the record and began processing the legislation. Working behind closed doors, he got an agreement to limit each candidate's radio-TV spending to seven cents for every vote cast in the last election. An additional seven cents would be allowed for other advertising.

Suddenly on March 19, the flabbergasted Pastore received a hand-delivered letter from the five GOP members of his subcommittee urging "that the record should be re-opened and further hearings held." The letter was signed by Senators Howard Baker of Tennessee, Marlow Cook of Kentucky, Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, Robert Griffin of Michigan and Ted Stevens of Alaska.

Their letter was followed by a request from the Justice Department on March 22 "to make a witness available" to the committee. Yet a month earlier, the department hadn't responded to an invitation to present testimony.

Pastore called the subcommittee behind closed doors and accused the Republicans of delaying tactics. There were times, he said, when he had been the only subcommittee member present at the hearings. "I don't think it's fair," he rumbled, "to come back now raising all these questions."

Senator Cook, noting that there weren't enough Democrats present to back up Pastore, asked for a roll call.

"All right, we'll call the roll," snapped Pastore. "But I want you to know I've got the proxies of the absent Democrats."

"I want to see your proxies," Cook demanded.

"When did we have to have written proxies?" thundered the Rhode Islander. "I talked to the members on our side, That has always been acceptable before."

"Well, I have proxies, and I have them in writing," said Cook.

"Anybody could claim they have verbal proxies," chimed in Senator Baker.

"If my word is not to be taken," roared Pastore, "then this committee has gone far beyond anything I have ever experienced!"

Senator Griffin warned that if the Democrats "cram this measure down our throats now, there will be that much more delay."

The slowdown has started. For the Republicans, despite their lip service, don't really want campaign-spending reforms.

President Nixon, shortly after he moved into the White House, ordered the National Security Council to make an exhaustive study of the U.S. capacity to detect and destroy Soviet missiles. The assignment was turned over to a top secret group, called the Verification Panel, which has gathered all available information on the rival weapon systems.

The President's purpose was to determine how far he could go with concessions at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks. Tne verification panel has concluded that it still isn't possible by our detection machinery to be sure that the Soviets have stopped construction of anti-ballistic missiles and multi-warhead missiles.

Mayor Alioto's Problems

SAN FRANCISCO—Behind the splendid facade of this beautiful city are the same troubles that plague the drab and blighted urban areas of the Eastern seaboard. It is a simple matter: no money.

Mayors from around the country went to Washington last week to tell the sad tale—layoffs of police and firemen, cutbacks in garbage collection, street cleaning and other elemental services. This, while crime and violence are on the increase.

They were lobbying for congressional approval of President Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal. In effect, they are begging for federal money to help balance their operating budgets. As one mayor after another testified, the pinch is so great that breakdown is at hand in many cities.

Revenue-sharing at the Nixon level of $5 billion will be the proverbial drop in the bucket. Mayor John Lindsay said that it would mean only two per cent of the budget of New York City, facing a deficit this year of $300 million and $1 billion next year. In other cities with smaller budgets and a somewhat better situation, it adds up to a larger percentage but not much larger. And it must always be remembered that the urgent and immediate plea is for operating costs to pay police, firemen and garbage collectors.

The mayors were also pleading for longer-range help in expanded job-training, education, public service employment. They spoke feelingly of an unemployment level in the core cities of anywhere from 12 to 14 per cent to 20 to 35 per cent. Begging for a federal commitment to summer programs, they were anticipating with dread a long hot summer with so many jobless roaming the streets.

One of the conspicuous pleaders in Washington was San Francisco's Mayor Joseph L. Alioto. As he confronted the President in the White House with the other mayors, Alioto got a grievous personal blow. A federal grand jury in Seattle indicted him for conspiring to bribe Washington State public officials with legal fees in price-fixing suits against electrical equipment manufacturers.

Rushing out of the meeting, he flew back to San Francisco and charged that the alleged bribe conspiracy, involving three former officials and a whopping legal fee of $2.3 million, was a 14-karat fake. Alioto, a Democrat, sees his troubles as a part of the plot to destroy him. He has a $12.5 million libel suit against Look magazine for an article accusing him of a "web of alliances with at least six leaders of La Cosa Nostra."

More than perhaps any other mayor, Alioto is in the tradition of the good old days when being mayor was a glamorous job with all kinds of pleasant perquisites. He is one of the most richly rewarded lawyers in the country and, according to reports, his public office has not interfered with his practice. Lawyers have been known to complain privately that they must go to the mayor's office to try to arrive at a compromise settlement in big anti-trust cases.

Here, where good living is an art, Alioto and his family set a high style. Affluence can buy more in San Francisco than in almost any other city, and the mayor is unabashedly proud of his own success. Yet he is rated an able executive within the narrow scope the mayor exercises, and San Franciscans love his flamboyant gestures, such as holding a big early-morning rally with free coffee and doughnuts on the anniversary of the 1906 earthquake and fire that all but destroyed the city.

Alioto told Washington that the city needed jobs and money for the poor, and it didn't have money for either. Six policemen have been killed since he was elected in 1967. Revenue-sharing is essential as a stopgap to fend off the worst. But it can never be more than a stopgap. The status of the cities as poor stepchildren of the states is one reason for their plight. Without a realistic overhaul of the crazy-quilt tax structure of city, county, state and nation, the mayors will be scrambling for a bailing-out operation year after year.

That is the weakness of the President's revenue-sharing proposals—it is a brief expedient. Last year Rep. Henry Reuss, D., Wis., introduced a revenue-sharing bill calling for tax and other reforms in return for federal money. The funds from Washington were to serve as a lever—the old carrot-and-stick principle—to help bring about fundamental changes which are imperative if the cities are to recover their health.

Doesn't Like TV

Lincoln, Neb.

I'm no TV fan, so don't or won't miss any of the programs, all the way from a dance-hall Welk to nitwits Hope and Skelton. I never have had time for such foolishness.

Some programs can't even be understood or stood by any civilized human being. We have enough fighting and shooting without putting it on the screen, and that's about all there is.

No, the youngsters don't stay home and watch such, but the older ones who lived on the dance floor when they were young can still dance around the room or laugh at silliness.

For myself and many others who haven't time for "kid stuff," it would make no difference if TV had never been invented.

Bus Service

Lincoln, Neb.

I hope the bus bond issue passes and we get those new buses quickly. I plan to start using them again if we do, because good bus service is much more economical and if others start riding the bus, too, and quit driving their own cars, we can cut down on air pollution and auto congestion at the same time.

We need some new routes so more people will be able to use the bus service. The West O area and the South First area have never had a route There are a lot of people in these areas who would ride the bus if given a chance to do so.

Care Of Disabled

Lincoln, Neb.

It may seem a little late for protesting the plans Lincoln General Hospital has for the discontinuance of the County Convalescent Unit. I for one disapproved. Had I made known my feelings earlier, perhaps others would have followed suit and spoken of their disapproval. Surely there are social workers and administrative people who have opinions regarding this move and who could speak up.

It seems that there is a great deal of retrogression regarding the care of the disabled. Instead of doing for them, there is too much being done to make greater hardships for them.

'Love Story'

Exeter, Neb.

Before The Star chokes off readers' opinions on the motion picture zero, "Love Story," let me put in my two cents, even though the film itself is unworthy of any appraisal.

It's impossible, with the best will in the world, to forgive the faults of this well-intentioned film.

It is entirely possible to delve into the social, emotional and psychological aspects of the film, but to do so here is irrelevant and impossible.

The script from which the book was taken is a commonplace re-hash of such classic works as Romeo and Juliet, et al, but has been disfigured into a mess of non-film piffle called "Love Story" — brilliant title.

Arthur Hiller who should have had more sense directed this less pretentious but even more un-cinematic film. (Even a halfway competent director could have made it endurable and even plausible.) It is less pretentious because, as a film, it's an out-and-out programmer, more uncinematic because no miracle of clever film-makers could adapt Erich Segal's blague, cover its story holes and correct other cinematic incompetence.

In addition to a faulty screenplay, actors of a similar caliber are utilized in this cinemitic tripe. Miss McGraw is no beauty and as yet is no actress. Mr. O'Neal is even less personable and less proficient acting-wise. Their relationship in this film is cold, immature, superficial and lacking in total depth. What they display here will not, in my opinion, carry them very far in U.S. filmdom.

The mere fact that "Love Story" has taken in large amounts of money does not represent any indication of its cinematic achievements. Instead it shows that the unfortunate young who view and listen to this sort of dreck think it will help them emerge from the intantilisms of protracted adolescence, to escape from the loneliness and pessimisms of emergent maturity, and to allay the universal hunger for love. They are being used and victimized by the shrewdies who promote and profit from "the mod scene."

The amateurish photography of "Love Story" which was somewhat less then mediocre did not even faze me enough to take note of the non-artist individual who was unlucky enough to be hired to film it.

Francis Lai of "A Man and a Woman" fame composed the non-music of "Love Story" along with the "dumbest" song of the year. Like a thousand and other dumb songs, this one is being carried along by the momentum of the film and novelette.

Last time out — in 1967 — Daley captured 74 per cent of the vote.

But Daley is more than an interesting relic. He is regarded in some quarters as the most knowledgeable and effective big city mayor in the nation. "Daley can do more in Chicago with the crook of his little finger than Lindsay can in New York in twelve hours of work," states one writer.

But some authorities say running a city is more than putting up new buildings and expressways and keeping the streets clean. "More and more mayors are being judged by the ambience they create—the moral tone, social awareness, and sense of identity with the city they inspire," states Andrew Hacker, professor of government at Cornell. "In this area, Richard Daley is a bad mayor."

Daley has a ready answer for such critics. Notes Mike Royko in his book, Boss: Richard J. Daley of Chicago (1971) "Daley has often said to confidants, 'What in hell do the experts know?'" He's been running a big city by the seat of his pants in some of the toughest years American cities have seen.

City Sales Tax Repeal

It probably was a mistake, back in 1969, for the Legislature to authorize cities to implement a sales tax of up to one percent if they so desired. The better alternative might have been to raise the state sales tax rate by a half percent and rebate revenues back to the locals.

At any rate, advantage of the optional sales tax law was taken in two instances—Lincoln, which levies a one-half percent city sales tax that brought in $1,731,261 in 1970 and Omaha, which started with a half percent jumping to one percent, raising a total of $5,726,440 in sales tax revenues last year. Those cities now have programs built around that expected revenue.

Wednesday, the Lgeislature's Revenue Committee voted to introduce a bill repealing the 1969 authorization for city sales taxes, which, at least as far as Lincoln and Omaha are concerned, would present a new twist in an ever-changing tax picture.

Backers of the proposal argue that the state should have maintained sole claim on the sales tax base once it abandoned the property tax field in 1967 and enacted sales and income tax laws. But in another light, the Revenue Committee would find it easier to sell an increase in the state sales tax rate—and it surely will come eventually—if Omahans and Lincolnites were not already shelling out for a city sales tax.

What would the two cities do if programs and services are to remain at the current level and the city sales tax law is repealed? Well, there is always a heavier reliance on the property tax. And, the cities could always seek authorization for an alternative method of raising revenue—for instance, an earnings tax, as Sen. Burbach of the Revenue Committee suggests, or, perhaps, a tax on intangible property.

An earnings tax, a more progressive method of taxation, might be a good answer. But, we are wondering if such authorization would come, even if asked for and whether people in either Omaha or Lincoln really want the tax system tampered with at present. The Legislature should take a hard look at repealing the optional sales tax law. It might have been a mistake, but not one that can't be lived with.

They Gotta Be Kiddin'

They gotta be kiddin' — they don't really believe that head football Coach Bob Devaney is a likely prospect for president of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. Maybe Devaney would be qualified, for all we know, although we suspect he is not.

But that is not the qeustion. The reason he is mentioned for the post is found in the assumption the popularity of his football program is such that the money coffers of the state would be opened to him for the entire university if he just spoke out for it.

We assume the suggestion is made facetiously, but there is a tone of seriousness in it from some quarters. Perhaps the idea is more of a satirical one. If so, it is a deep cutting piece of satire.

Perhaps it is the greatest insult that has ever been given state legislators. The thought that state senators would knock down every academic argument that came along and then completely capitulate for the sake of a word from the football coach is really out of this world.

We like football as well as the next guy. We are delighted that Nebraska football is No. 1, are excited about the start of spring practice and eager for the next fall season to roll around.

But we are not out of our minds on the subject. Academic matters are of first priority and Bob Devaney would agree, despite the jokes he likes to make along those lines.

Hopefully, it is an insult of the first order to suggest that football mania in Nebraska is greater than academic pride and responsibility. It it's not an insult, it is the truth and the suggestion of such stupidity is clearly out of line.

GOP Talk Of Campaign-Spending Reforms But Employ Behind-Scenes Delay Tactics

WASHINGTON — All the Republican talk about campaign-spending reforms has been so much pap for the public. For behind the scenes, GOP leaders have been holding up the reforms.

Their delaying tactics led to a shouting match between Senators John Pastore, D-R.I., and Marlow Cook, R-Ky., the other day behind closed doors of the Senate Commerce Committee.

The controversy was over reducing the Pikes Peak cost of political campaigns, particularly the high spending for television time.

Last year, President Nixon vetoed the first reform measure to pass Congress in 45 years. It would have allowed free broadcast time for presidential candidates and cut-rates for other candidates.

The effect would have been at least to reduce the indebtedness of political candidates to the big contributors, who invariably demand government favors in return for their contrbuions.

The President announced he was killing the measure because it wasn't comprehensive enough, and the Republicans promised to introduce more "comprehensive campaign-reform legislation" early this year.

They are now putting on a public show of supporting reform legislation, but they are doing their utmost in the backrooms to prevent it from coming to a vote.

Reason: the Republicans usually collect more campaign cash than the Democrats are able to scrape together. This gives them a campaign advantage they don't want to give up.

☆ ☆ ☆

In return for the big donations that are essential to finance their campaigns, too many elected officials are compelled to vote for the private interests which often are against the public interest.

The sad truth is that the American voter often can't be bothered to go to the polls, let alone give money.

Even the most honest congressmen, therefore, can't entirely escape doing business with the pressure groups. Those candidates who have tried to finance campaigns from small contributions have learned quickly that the fat cats are indispensable.

The attempt to produce a new bill that the President won't veto got off to a fast start. Pastore scheduled hearings on the radio-TV phase of the bill and issued invitations to everyone concerned to testify.

After four days of hearings, Pastore waited a week for additional comments, then closed the record and began processing the legislation. Working behind closed doors, he got an agreement to limit each candidate's radio-TV spending to seven cents for every vote cast in the last election. An additional seven cents would be allowed for other advertising.

Suddenly on March 19, the flabbergasted Pastore received a hand-delivered letter from the five GOP members of his subcommittee urging "that the record should be re-opened and further hearings held." The letter was signed by Senators Howard Baker of Tennessee, Marlow Cook of Kentucky, Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, Robert Griffin of Michigan and Ted Stevens of Alaska.

Their letter was followed by a request from the Justice Department on March 22 "to make a witness available" to the committee. Yet a month earlier, the department hadn't responded to an invitation to present testimony.

Pastore called the subcommittee behind closed doors and accused the Republicans of delaying tactics. There were times, he said, when he had been the only subcommittee member present at the hearings. "I don't think it's fair," he rumbled, "to come back now raising all these questions."

Senator Cook, noting that there weren't enough Democrats present to back up Pastore, asked for a roll call.

"All right, we'll call the roll," snapped Pastore. "But I want you to know I've got the proxies of the absent Democrats."

"I want to see your proxies," Cook demanded.

"When did we have to have written proxies?" thundered the Rhode Islander. "I talked to the members on our side, That has always been acceptable before."

"Well, I have proxies, and I have them in writing," said Cook.

"Anybody could claim they have verbal proxies," chimed in Senator Baker.

"If my word is not to be taken," roared Pastore, "then this committee has gone far beyond anything I have ever experienced!"

Senator Griffin warned that if the Democrats "cram this measure down our throats now, there will be that much more delay."

The slowdown has started. For the Republicans, despite their lip service, don't really want campaign-spending reforms.

President Nixon, shortly after he moved into the White House, ordered the National Security Council to make an exhaustive study of the U.S. capacity to detect and destroy Soviet missiles. The assignment was turned over to a top secret group, called the Verification Panel, which has gathered all available information on the rival weapon systems.

The President's purpose was to determine how far he could go with concessions at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks. The verification panel has concluded that it still isn't possible by our detection machinery to be sure that the Soviets have stopped construction of anti-ballistic missiles and multi-warhead missiles.

Mayor Alioto's Problems

SAN FRANCISCO—Behind the splendid facade of this beautiful city are the same troubles that plague the drab and blighted urban areas of the Eastern seaboard. It is a simple matter: no money.

Mayors from around the country went to Washington last week to tell the sad tale—layoffs of police and firemen, cutbacks in garbage collection, street cleaning and other elemental services. This, while crime and violence are on the increase.

They were lobbying for congressional approval of President Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal. In effect, they are begging for federal money to help balance their operating budgets. As one mayor after another testified, the pinch is so great that breakdown is at hand in many cities.

Revenue-sharing at the Nixon level of $5 billion will be the proverbial drop in the bucket. Mayor John Lindsay said that it would mean only two per cent of the budget of New York City, facing a deficit this year of $300 million and $1 billion next year. In other cities with smaller budgets and a somewhat better situation, it adds up to a larger percentage but not much larger. And it must always be remembered that the urgent and immediate plea is for operating costs to pay police, firemen and garbage collectors.

The mayors were also pleading for longer-range help in expanded job-training, education, public service employment. They spoke feelingly of an unemployment level in the core cities of anywhere from 12 to 14 per cent to 20 to 35 per cent. Begging for a federal commitment to summer programs, they were anticipating with dread a long hot summer with so many jobless roaming the streets.

One of the conspicuous pleaders in Washington was San Francisco's Mayor Joseph L. Alioto. As he confronted the President in the White House with the other mayors, Alioto got a grievous personal blow. A federal grand jury in Seattle indicted him for conspiring to bribe Washington State public officials with legal fees in price-fixing suits against electrical equipment manufacturers.

Rushing out of the meeting, he flew back to San Francisco and charged that the alleged bribe conspiracy, involving three former officials and a whopping legal fee of $2.3 million, was a 14-karat fake. Alioto, a Democrat, sees his troubles as a part of the plot to destroy him. He has a $12.5 million libel suit against Look magazine for an article accusing him of a "web of alliances with at least six leaders of La Cosa Nostra."

More than perhaps any other mayor, Alioto is in the tradition of the good old days when being mayor was a glamorous job with all kinds of pleasant perquisites. He is one of the most richly rewarded lawyers in the country and, according to reports, his public office has not interfered with his practice. Lawyers have been known to complain privately that they must go to the mayor's office to try to arrive at a compromise settlement in big anti-trust cases.

Here, where good living is an art, Alioto and his family set a high style. Affluence can buy more in San Francisco than in almost any other city, and the mayor is unabashedly proud of his own success. Yet he is rated an able executive within the narrow scope the mayor exercises, and San Franciscans love his flamboyant gestures, such as holding a big early-morning rally with free coffee and doughnuts on the anniversary of the 1906 earthquake and fire that all but destroyed the city.

Alioto told Washington that the city needed jobs and money for the poor, and it didn't have money for either. Six policemen have been killed since he was elected in 1967. Revenue-sharing is essential as a stopgap to fend off the worst. But it can never be more than a stopgap. The status of the cities as poor stepchildren of the states is one reason for their plight. Without a realistic overhaul of the crazy-quilt tax structure of city, county, state and nation, the mayors will be scrambling for a bailing-out operation year after year.

That is the weakness of the President's revenue-sharing proposals—it is a brief expedient. Last year Rep. Henry Reuss, D., Wis., introducd a revenue-sharing bill calling for tax and other reforms in return for federal money. The funds from Washington were to serve as a lever—the old carrot-and-stick principle—to help bring about fundamental changes which are imperative if the cities are to recover their health.

Doesn't Like TV

Lincoln, Neb.

I'm no TV fan, so don't or won't miss any of the programs, all the way from a dance-hall Welk to nitwits Hope and Skelton. I never have had time for such foolishness.

Some programs can't even be understood or stood by any civilized human being. We have enough fighting and shooting without putting it on the screen, and that's about all there is.

No, the youngsters don't stay home and watch such, but the older ones who lived on the dance floor when they were young can still dance around the room or laugh at silliness.

For myself and many others who haven't time for "kid stuff," it would make no difference if TV had never been invented.

Bus Service

Lincoln, Neb.

I hope the bus bond issue passes and we get those new buses quickly. I plan to start using them again if we do, because good bus service is much more economical and if others start riding the bus, too, and quit driving their own cars, we can cut down on air pollution and auto congestion at the same time.

We need some new routes so more people will be able to use the bus service. The West O area and the South First area have never had a route. There are a lot of people in these areas who would ride the bus if given a chance to do so.

Care Of Disabled

Lincoln, Neb.

It may seem a little late for protesting the plans Lincoln General Hospital has for the discontinuance of the County Convalescent Unit. I for one disapproved. Had I made known my feelings earlier, perhaps others would have followed suit and spoken of their disapproval. Surely there are social workers and administrative people who have opinions regarding this move and who could speak up.

It seems that there is a great deal of retrogression regarding the care of the disabled. Instead of doing for them, there is too much being done to make greater hardships for them.

'Love Story'

Exeter, Neb.

Before The Star chokes off readers' opinions on the motion picture zero, "Love Story," let me put in my two cents, even though the film itself is unworthy of any appraisal.

It's impossible, with the best will in the world, to forgive the faults of this well-intentioned film.

It is entirely possible to delve into the social, emotional and psychological aspects of the film, but to do so here is irrelevant and impossible.

The script from which the book was taken is a commonplace re-hash of such classic works as Romeo and Juliet, et al, but has been disfigured into a mess of non-film piffle called "Love Story" — brilliant title.

Arthur Hiller who should have had more sense directed this less pretentious but even more un-cinematic film. (Even a halfway competent director could have made it endurable and even plausible.) It is less pretentious because, as a film, it's an out-and-out programmer, more uncinematic because no miracle of clever film-makers could adapt Erich Segal's blague, cover its story holes and correct other cinematic incompetence.

In addition to a faulty screenplay, actors of a similar caliber are utilized in this cinemitic tripe. Miss McGraw is no beauty and as yet is no actress. Mr. O'Neal is even less personable and less proficient acting-wise. Their relationship in this film is cold, immature, superficial and lacking in total depth. What they display here will not, in my opinion, carry them very far in U.S. filmdom.

The mere fact that "Love Story" has taken in large amounts of money does not represent any indication of its cinematic achievements. Instead it shows that the unfortunate young who view and listen to this sort of dreck think it will help them emerge from the intantilisms of protracted adolescence, to escape from the loneliness and pessimisms of emergent maturity, and to allay the universal hunger for love. They are being used and victimized by the shrewdies who promote and profit from "the mod scene."

The amateurish photography of "Love Story" which was somewhat less then mediocre did not even faze me enough to take note of the non-artist individual who was unlucky enough to be hired to film it.

Francis Lai of "A Man and a Woman" fame composed the non-music of "Love Story" along with the "dumbest" song of the year. Like a thousand and other dumb songs, this one is being carried along by the momentum of the film and novelette.

Dismissal, Expulsion Procedures Approved

. . . FOR NU FACULTY, STUDENTS

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Legislation providing procedures for the dismissal of faculty members or expulsion of students involved in disruptive activities on campus was given final approval Thursday by the Unicameral.

The bill, LB445, sponsored by Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland and supported by the University of Nebraska Board of Regents, cleared its final test on a 42-0 vote.

It will become law upon the signature of Gov. J. James Exon.

Included Acts

Those acts include "to use or assist others in any way in the use of force or to counsel, recommend, or urge the use of force or the threat of force or the seizure of property" at any public institution of higher education.

Other acts or actions "not sanctioned by law" which disrupt the normal operation of the institution are also included as grounds for dismissal or expulsion.

Persons charged with disruptive behavior must be provided a public hearing and presented with a formal written statement of the charges against them.

Then they have the right to file a written response, testify at the hearing, produce other witnesses and be represented by counsel.

Written Order

Dismissal or expulsion must be made by written order containing the findings of fact which form the basis for the decision.

LB445 does not apply to an institution's decision not to renew the probationary appointment of any faculty or administrative staff member.

While the bill was promoted by recent events at NU-Lincoln, and particularly the case of Professor Stephen Rozman, it would not apply to the Rozman affair.

Rozman, an untenured faculty member, was a probationary appointee whose contract was not renewed by the Board of Regents.

The board determined that Rozman was guilty of "inappropriate" behavior during last May's anti-war activities on the campus. The political science professor has taken his case to the courts.

Senators Vote To Ratify Big Blue River Compact

By The Associated Press

The Nebraska Legislature Thursday voted 37-0 in favor of ratifying the Big Blue River Compact between Nebraska and Kansas.

Ratification was contained in LB609, chiefly sponsored by Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora, which was passed on final reading.

Upon approval by the Kansas Legislature and ratification by the U.S. Congress, a Kansas-Nebraska Big Blue River Compact Administration would be established. The administration would be governed by a five-member board consisting of two representatives of each state and one federal member.

"There has to be some kind of agreement between states in situations like this," Kremer had said. "We have agreements with Wyoming on the Platte River and South Dakota on our rivers up north."

The Big Blue, and its tributary, the Little Blue, drains a basin of almost 10,000 square miles in south central Nebraska and north central Kansas. About 75% of the area is in Nebraska.

The two stated purposes of the compact, which has been considered for a decade, would be to seek an equitable water distribution and to seek some type of pollution control.

Senators OK Establishment Of Status Of Women Panel

By United Press International

The Legislature passed and sent to the governor Thursday a bill which would establish a Commission on the Status of Women.

The lawmakers approved the proposal on a 36-3 vote. Sponsor of the measure is Lincoln Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme.

The bill would call for establishment of a commission, known as the Nebraska Governor's Commission on the Status of Women. Its membership would be limited to 40 persons, appointed by the governor.

Its purpose would be to "emphasize studying the changing and developing roles of women in the American society," according to the bill.

It would also coordinate efforts of various women's organizations in the state, interested in the welfare of women. And would also be charged with "identification and recognition" of contributions made by Nebraska women to "community, state and nation."

The bill carries the emergency clause, which means it will go into effect immediately if signed by Gov. J. J. Exon.

Dismissal, Expulsion Procedures Approved

. . . FOR NU FACULTY, STUDENTS

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Legislation providing procedures for the dismissal of faculty members or expulsion of students involved in disruptive activities on campus was given final approval Thursday by the Unicameral.

The bill, LB445, sponsored by Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland and supported by the University of Nebraska Board of Regents, cleared its final test on a 42-0 vote.

It will become law upon the signature of Gov. J. James Exon.

Included Acts

Those acts include "to use or assist others in any way in the use of force or to counsel, recommend, or urge the use of force or the threat of force or the seizure of property" at any public institution of higher education.

Other acts or actions "not sanctioned by law" which disrupt the normal operation of the institution are also included as grounds for dismissal or expulsion.

Persons charged with disruptive behavior must be provided a public hearing and presented with a formal written statement of the charges against them.

Then they have the right to file a written response, testify at the hearing, produce other witnesses and be represented by counsel.

Written Order

Dismissal or expulsion must be made by written order containing the findings of fact which form the basis for the decision.

LB445 does not apply to an institution's decision not to renew the probationary appointment of any faculty or administrative staff member.

While the bill was promoted by recent events at NU-Lincoln, and particularly the case of Professor Stephen Rozman, it would not apply to the Rozman affair.

Rozman, an untenured faculty member, was a probationary appointee whose contract was not renewed by the Board of Regents.

The board determined that Rozman was guilty of "inappropriate" behavior during last May's anti-war activities on the campus. The political science professor has taken his case to the courts.

Senators Vote To Ratify Big Blue River Compact

By The Associated Press

The Nebraska Legislature Thursday voted 37-0 in favor of ratifying the Big Blue River Compact between Nebraska and Kansas.

Ratification was contained in LB609, chiefly sponsored by Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora, which was passed on final reading.

Upon approval by the Kansas Legislature and ratification by the U.S. Congress, a Kansas-Nebraska Big Blue River Compact Administration would be established. The administration would be governed by a five-member board consisting of two representatives of each state and one federal member.

"There has to be some kind of agreement between states in situations like this," Kremer had said. "We have agreements with Wyoming on the Platte River and South Dakota on our rivers up north."

The Big Blue, and its tributary, the Little Blue, drains a basin of almost 10,000 square miles in south central Nebraska and north central Kansas. About 75% of the area is in Nebraska.

The two stated purposes of the compact, which has been considered for a decade, would be to seek an equitable water distribution and to seek some type of pollution control.

Proposed Age Minimum For Senators Is Passed

The Legislature Thursday sent to a vote of the people a proposed constitutional amendment to establish a minimum age of 21 for state senators.

The proposal, contained in LB126, cleared its final legislative barrier on a 40-4 vote.

Nebraska voters will consider the measure at the 1972 general election.

The amendment would also require candidates for the Legislature to be registered voters.

Under current constitutional provisions, all electors are eligible to sit in the Legislature.

Current Minimum

Thus, the minimum age for state senators is now 20. If the voting age is reduced to 18, as proposed, that would also drop the age of eligibility for lawmakers.

LB126 earlier failed to receive the 40 necessary votes to be placed on the 1972 primary election. It was then amended to provide for a general election vote, a change which reduced its required number of affirmative final reading votes to 30.

The proposal was sponsored by Sens. Ramey Whitney of Chappell and W. H. Hasebroock of West Point.

Voting No

Voting no Thursday were Sens. Richard Maresh of Milligan, P. J. Morgan of Omaha, Gerald Stromer of Kearney and J. James Waldron of Callaway.

Reconsideration Nixed Of ADC Appropriation

By United Press International

The Legislature overwhelmingly rejected a motion Thursday to reconsider its decision to appropriate $2.7 million to fund increased maximum payments to aid to dependent children welfare recipients.

The 24-10 vote to refuse reconsideration came on a motion by Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa who said the Legislature made a "gross error" when it approved the appropriation.

The funding bill, LB639A, was passed Wednesday by a vote of 33-12, the absolute minimum number of affirmative votes needed to constitutionally block a gubernatorial veto.

The measure was sent to the governor along with a bill, LB639, which established increased maximum standards of aid for ADC recipients.

Gov. J. J. Exon had urged passage of LB639 to prevent a threatened cutoff of federal welfare funds amounting to approximately $15 million a year.

Against Companion Bill

However, the governor did not want the companion funding bill and had told the unicameral actual funding of the increased maximums was not necessary to prevent the cutoff of funds.

The appropriations bill, which included $2.2 million in state funds, puts an added strain on Exon's ability to keep the state budget within a range which would allow him to fulfill his campaign promise that the state sales and incomes taxes would not have to be increased beyond 2½% and 13%.

Nore said he made the motion to reconsider passage of the appropriations bill "for my taxpayers at home."

He said when he voted for it Wednesday he did not realized the measure was not needed to prevent the cutoff nor that the bill was not wanted by the governor.

Nore's Mistake

But Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway said it would be a "tragic mistake" for the Unicameral to change its mind on the matter. He also suggested that Nore should not have asked the Legislature to correct the Genoa lawmaker's mistake.

"If Sen. Nore is not aware of what he's doing in the Legislature that's his problem," Waldron said.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff accused Nore of acting on the governor's behalf and urged rejection of the motion.

"This would be perpetuating a fraud on the people of Nebraska by saying one thing and doing another," he said.

Nore denied Carpenter's accusation and said he was not the only lawmaker who voted for the appropriations bill Wednesday who did not understand its impact.

President Grant Helped Decide Governor's Race

Little Rock, Ark. (AP) — A president once had to intercede to settle an Arkansas gubernatorial election.

It happened in 1872 when Elisha Baxter led Joseph Brooks by a small majority. Each claimed victory.

Baxter took office. Brooks went to court, but his case was thrown out. Then Brooks took the governor's office by force, and friends of each candidate kept Little Rock on the verge of civil war for nearly a month. Several skirmishes caused a few casualties.

President Grant then interceded and recognized Baxter as governor.

Proposed Age Minimum For Senators Is Passed

The Legislature Thursday sent to a vote of the people a proposed constitutional amendment to establish a minimum age of 21 for state senators.

The proposal, contained in LB126, cleared its final legislative barrier on a 40-4 vote.

Nebraska voters will consider the measure at the 1972 general election.

The amendment would also require candidates for the Legislature to be registered voters.

Under current constitutional provisions, all electors are eligible to sit in the Legislature.

Current Minimum

Thus, the minimum age for state senators is now 20. If the voting age is reduced to 18, as proposed, that would also drop the age of eligibility for lawmakers.

LB126 earlier failed to receive the 40 necessary votes to be placed on the 1972 primary election. It was then amended to provide for a general election vote, a change which reduced its required number of affirmative final reading votes to 30.

The proposal was sponsored by Sens. Ramey Whitney of Chappell and W. H. Hasebroock of West Point.

Voting No

Voting no Thursday were Sens. Richard Maresh of Milligan, P. J. Morgan of Omaha, Gerald Stromer of Kearney and J. James Waldron of Callaway.

Reconsideration Nixed Of ADC Appropriation

By United Press International

The Legislature overwhelmingly rejected a motion Thursday to reconsider its decision to appropriate $2.7 million to fund increased maximum payments to aid to dependent children welfare recipients.

The 24-10 vote to refuse reconsideration came on a motion by Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa who said the Legislature made a "gross error" when it approved the appropriation.

The funding bill, LB639A, was passed Wednesday by a vote of 33-12, the absolute minimum number of affirmative votes needed to constitutionally block a gubernatorial veto.

The measure was sent to the governor along with a bill, LB639, which established increased maximum standards of aid for ADC recipients.

Gov. J. J. Exon had urged passage of LB639 to prevent a threatened cutoff of federal welfare funds amounting to approximately $15 million a year.

Against Companion Bill

However, the governor did not want the companion funding bill and had told the unicameral actual funding of the increased maximums was not necessary to prevent the cutoff of funds.

The appropriations bill, which included $2.2 million in state funds, puts an added strain on Exon's ability to keep the state budget within a range which would allow him to fulfill his campaign promise that the state sales and income taxes would not have to be increased beyond 2½% and 13%.

Nore said he made the motion to reconsider passage of the appropriations bill "for my taxpayers at home."

He said when he voted for it Wednesday he did not realized the measure was not needed to prevent the cutoff nor that the bill was not wanted by the governor.

Nore's Mistake

But Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway said it would be a "tragic mistake" for the Unicameral to change its mind on the matter. He also suggested that Nore should not have asked the Legislature to correct the Genoa lawmaker's mistake.

"If Sen. Nore is not aware of what he's doing in the Legislature that's his problem," Waldron said.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff accused Nore of acting on the governor's behalf and urged rejection of the motion.

"This would be perpetuating a fraud on the people of Nebraska by saying one thing and doing another," he said.

Nore denied Carpenter's accusation and said he was not the only lawmaker who voted for the appropriations bill Wednesday who did not understand its impact.

President Grant Helped Decide Governor's Race

Little Rock, Ark. (AP) — A president once had to intercede to settle an Arkansas gubernatorial election.

It happened in 1872 when Elisha Baxter led Joseph Brooks by a small majority. Each claimed victory.

Baxter took office. Brooks went to court, but his case was thrown out. Then Brooks took the governor's office by force, and friends of each candidate kept Little Rock on the verge of civil war for nearly a month. Several skirmishes caused a few casualties.

President Grant then interceded and recognized Baxter as governor.

Unsigned ADC Bill To Be Law

By The Associated Press

Gov. J. James Exon reported Thursday he is allowing an appropriations bill to finance increased aid to dependent children (ADC) welfare payments to become law without his signature.

The measure, LB639A, which Exon had not sought, was passed by the Legislature with 33 approving votes—enough to forestall a gubernatorial veto.

The bill provides some $2.1 million in general fund money to finance a higher level of ADC payments called for in LB639, also passed Wednesday.

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) had threatened to cut off the flow of federal ADC funds to Nebraska as of Thursday (April 1), if LB639 were not passed and made effective by that day.

Increased Maximum

LB639 increased maximum ADC payment to a parent and one child from $110 to $124 per month, and for each additional child, from $30 to $34 per month.

Exon sought and was given power to prorate the available funds, making the funding bill, LB639A, unnecessary. Without LB639A, the state still would have met the federal requirements.

Exon said Thursday there are some options open to him to avoid the impact on his budget inherent in the spending of LB639A money, but declined to discuss the options.

He indicated, however, he would be reluctant to refuse to spend the LB639A money.

"I would think I would go a long ways before I would not agree with the Legislature for money they had apprropriated," he told a news conference. "For after all, I respect the Legislature as a sovereign body even though they pass measures that prevent my veto of them.

"They are duly elected representatives of the people of this state and I would think that I probably never would refuse to employ funds that have been duly passed by the Legislature."

Exon said HEW was informed by telephone Wednesday of his signing of LB639 into law.

Funds Cutoff Is Prevented By New Law

Washington (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare reported Thursday that enactment of a new Nebraska law would prevent the cutoff of about $15 million in federal welfare funds for Nebraska.

Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., said that an HEW spokesman told him "the Nebraska Legislature's enactment of a law Wednesday effectively meets all of the requirements which have been set forth by HEW officials."

Curtis said HEW officials here were awaiting receipts of a telegram from Nebraska officials advising them of the effective date of the new law. The telegram, Curtis said, was sent from Lincoln, Neb., on Wednesday but apparently was delayed because of the heavy flow of telegrams to Washington in connection with the conviction and sentencing of Lt. William Calley.

HEW officials told Curtis that as soon as the telegram is received they will sign a letter formally eliminating the threatened cutoff of funds.

EXON BELIEVES:

We Can Hold Line On Taxes In State

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Gov. J. James Exon said Thursday he believes "we still can hold the line" on sales and income taxes in Nebraska.

But, he told a news conference, "it's becoming more difficult all the time."

Nebraskans who backed Exon in his campaign pledge to keep sales and income tax rates from exceeding 1969 levels in 1971 could help the cause by expressing their views to members of the Legislature, the governor said.

This is a time in the session when senators are coming forth with "pet projects," he said.

"We are nearing the showdown stage on whether the governor's budget will be broken."

Pressures Cited

Notwithstanding "unbelievable pressures," he predicted the line will be held.

It was the fifth general news conference he has held since taking office in January, and covered a variety of subjects.

Exon said no settlement has been reached in conferences with University of Nebraska officials over the size of the governor's NU budget recommendations but said he hopes "we can come to some agreement."

He said another conference was held at the governor's mansion Thursday morning involving Chancellor D. B. Varner, President Robert Raun of the Board of Regents, Appropriations Committee Chairman Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings and budget advisors.

Veto Promised

Exon promised again to veto any bill which gives 50% property tax exemption next year to agriculture and business equipment, machinery and inventory. Such exemption is called for in Crofton Sen. Jules Burbach's pending LB573.

Exon said he has offered a reasonable alternative to LB573 — a 10% exemption, compensated for by an increase in the corporate income tax.

Passage of LB573 will force "an immediate and drastic" one-half per cent increase in the sales tax rate, and a one to two per cent increase in the individual income tax rate, Exon said.

Exon denounced a new bill which the Legislature's Revenue Committee agreed Wednesday to sponsor — repealing the local option sales tax law under which the city of Omaha has adopted a one per cent city sales tax, and Lincoln has initiated a sales tax of one-half of one per cent.

Bill Denounced

He called it a "surprise" measure, indicated Omaha and Lincoln accepted the options in good faith and will be "in serious financial difficulties" if the local option law is repealed.

The governor said he hopes the bill he sponsored to exempt food from sales taxes can be brought to the floor next week. The measure, LB567, has been stalled in the Revenue Committee, unable to draw enough votes either for killing or advancing.

He complained that the Legislature has already overspent his budget recommendations and "cut into" the $4.2 million he had included in his budget to exempt food from sales taxes.

Peterson Says Housing Authority Doing Good Job

Mayoral candidate Erv Peterson praised the work of the Lincoln Housing Authority and said he will work to help it with added community support as mayor.

Peterson also contended that the city's present mayor has taken no leadership in housing, adding that the housing needs of the elderly are especially critical.

"I would provide the leadership needed now to get more elements of the total community involved in meeting housing needs," he said.

Peterson said that the community should not voice criticisms against the housing authority but instead should unite behind their work.

"As mayor I would continue the good program that the housing authority has started, rather than try to thwart it," he said.

3 State Agency Heads Named

Nelson

Soukup

Smeloff

Gov. J. J. Exon Thursday announced new appointments to head a trio of state agencies, including the Crime Commission, the Aeronautics Department, and the Technical Assistance Agency (TAA).

Former Asst. U.S. Atty. Duane Nelson of Lincoln was picked to head the Crime Commission, Glen Soukop of Lincoln was named TAA director and Nicolas Smeloff of Lincoln was appointed aeronautics director.

Nelson, 40, replaces Walter Weaver, the commission's executive director who has resigned to accept a job in Omaha.

Nelson will receive $16,000 annually, $2,000 less than the salary paid Weaver.

Smeloff, 48, takes over from Paul Burket who resigned three days ago effective May 1, according to Exon.

Smeloff will be paid $15,500 per year to the $16,800 salary paid Burket. According to Exon, he had told Burket earlier he was seeking another aeronautics director.

One of Smeloff's first duties, said Exon, would be to "come up with some proposals" for pooling the aircraft owned by the state.

Soukop, 29, replaces Herman Thompson who had resigned at Exon's request. Soukop will receive $14,900 per year, $700 annually less than Thompson, who is now working for the federal Justice Department.

Soukop used the news conference to announce the appointment of George Woods, 55, of Omaha as his assistant director.

EXON BELIEVES:

We Can Hold Line On Taxes In State

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Gov. J James Exon said Thursday he believes "we still can hold the line" on sales and income taxes in Nebraska.

But, he told a news conference, "it's becoming more difficult all the time"

Nebraskans who backed Exon in his campaign pledge to keep sales and income tax rates from exceeding 1969 levels in 1971 could help the cause by expressing their views to members of the Legislature, the governor said.

This is a time in the session when senators are coming forth with "pet projects," he said

"We are nearing the showdown stage on whether the governor's budget will be broken."

Pressures Cited

Notwithstanding "unbelievable pressures," he predicted the line will be held

It was the fifth general news conference he has held since taking office in January, and covered a variety of subjects

Exon said no settlement has been reached in conferences with University of Nebraska officials over the size of the governor's NU budget recommendations but said he hopes "we can come to some agreement."

Good morning:

We truly think that Lincoln is great in its support of the arts. As we have said before, the success of the arts in Lincoln is a culmination of effort on the part of the producers, the artists and the patrons. If there is a secret formula, we think it must be the total enthusiasm and committment of the aforementioned parties.

While we are throwing banquets, we have just one small thorn that we feel might deserve a thought or two in the minds of our devoted citizens. That is the art of ballet and dance in general. While Lincoln is well endowed with a wide selection of presentations in art, drama and music, it seems that the dance has become a poor relative.

An appreciation of the arts requires time. It may be nurtured in our youth and pursued in adulthood. Often, if a person has had personal experience in the arts — taken lessons in an instrument or drawing or drama, the skill of the art becomes more admirable and there is greater appreciation for the 'greats' in any field.

So it is with the art of dance. Dance as an artistic pursuit has endless assets. For the young girl or woman, it develops poise and carriage, as well as muscle control. The discipline of ballet, like any art, is an invaluable bonus. Today, some football teams study ballet for the body control and development of endurance it offers.

The American Ballet Theatre will appear in Kansas City, Mo., this evening, as well as in a matinee and evening performance on Saturday. Ballet Theatre is one of the finer American touring companies. Things are looking up in Lincoln as well. The Community Concert Series has scheduled the National Ballet of Washington for the 1971-72 season.

We hope that this will set a precedent. Please join us.

OF SPECIAL NOTE: DICK CAVETT AND JOHN NEIHARDT . . . Something powerful and beautiful happened when an intelligent 35 year old television personality got together with a sensitive 90 year old poet laureate. The result was actually so dynamic that the American Broadcasting Company decided to devote to it a whole 90 minute program, which will be aired on KETV Channel 7, Tuesday, April 27th on the Dick Cavett Show. Dr. Neihardt, poet laureate of Nebraska, who will be celebrating the 50th anniversary of his laureateship this month, spent almost two days talking with Cavett, in Omaha earlier this year. With over four hours of taped interview in hand, Cavett called from New York to say that he was having a difficult time editing, as the whole session was extremely good. He hoped that what he would be unable to use, could be somehow later utilized by students through Educational Television. Dr. Neihardt was thoroughly impressed with Cavett. "Dick had read and understood many of my works. He was well versed in the questions he asked." An eventful evening is in store for you, Tuesday April 27, on the Dick Cavett Show, KETV Channel 7.

KEEP YOUR EYES ON THE HANDS . . . because all of the exhibits which will appear at the next Sheldon Art Gallery exhibit, Objects: USA, are made by hand. Sponsored by the Johnson Wax Company, the exhibition brings a revival of the crafts in every imaginable media. There are over 300 pieces that will occupy every inch of the Sheldon Gallery and will include everything from a framed opera coat wall hanging to a sculptured earthenware and enamel tennis shoe. The opening date is April 14.

THE LINCOLN BROADWAY LEAGUE PROMISES . . . an exciting line up for this forthcoming season. Heading the program is the successful musical "Promises, Promises" which was written by Neil Simon and based on the screenplay "The Apartment." Music for the comedy is provided by Burt Bacharach, and the lyrics are by Hal David. Later on during the season a spicy and colorful program will be performed by the National Dancers of Mexico, who are renowned for their stylistic performance. "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" will round out the Broadway League season. Another comedy by the ever popular Neil Simon, it is about a successful middle aged restauranter and his extramarital infidelity. Tickets for the season are available now, and more information can be obtained by calling Mrs. James Hernsmeyer at 488-6024.

KOSMET KLUB . . . A rock opera known as "Tommy" will be performed on the University of Nebraska coliseum stage tonight, Friday April 2, and Saturday April 3. Under the direction of Mike Dobbins, the public show is Kosmet Klub's annual spring presentation. An early renaissance Jesuit morality play, "Tommy" will be presented on a raised platform with the audience seated on the three sides. Curtain time is 8 o'clock and tickets are available at the door.

SEVENTEEN 76 . . . Warm, funny, and moving the new musical 1776 that won the coveted Tony Award will be presented as the final concert of the current Lincoln Community Concert Series. New members may also attend with their membership receipts. Tuesday April 6th is the red white and blue '1776' day, and curtain time is 8 o'clock.

CONTINUE WRITING . . . The City Recreation Department creative writing contest has been extended for the youth division, (ages 12 to 18) to April 15. Winners will have their entries published in the Women's section of the Lincoln Star and will receive a trophy. Authors may enter poetry, essay or short story, and send them to Pat Culver, City Recreation Dept., 2740 A Street, Lincoln (68502). Time to brush up on your talents we hear. Auditions for a Talent Show by City Recreation will be held April 13 and 14. Anyone 12 years or older is eligible. Details later.

A Poem Within Herself

BY INDIRA SINGH

Sallie Nixon is a poem within herself. Soft and gentle she remains ever so humble at the long list of poetry awards she has received over the years.

Just last week Sallie was informed by the Poetry Society of America, that she is the recipient of one of the highest honors awarded by the society. The John Masefield Memorial Award will be presented to her on April 22 at the 61st annual dinner of the society to be held at The Plaza in New York.

Her entery for the award was a poem entitled: "This Is The Year. Elegy for 'Nicky,' rarest of sons, whose norm was difference." Sallie had worked on the poem for over four years, believing in its importance and cherishing its ideas. She feels that this award has somehow allowed her to take care of an important responsibility.

The poem is very personal, as it deals with the death of her young son, Nicky, but the imagery in it is strong enough to be relevant and important enough to everyone. The elegy begins with the snow of winter, continues to the "white-spiced swirls" of March, and on through a May "laced with shadows from the oak." It speaks of autumn and an October when "a pile of trash dared wild-blue flowers," and of birthdays and death, and difference and honesty, but above all with awesome clarity it speaks of suffering.

A native of North Carolina, Sallie is the wife of Caldwell W. Nixon, who is the Director of the Lincoln Veterans Administration Regional Office. Enrolled this year as a Junior at the University of Nebraska, Sallie won the American Academy of Poets award last fall, and a poem from this collection will appear in the Spring 1971 issue of the "Prairie Schooner."

Poetry is Sallie's life, and she admits it as "her religion." "The goal of the poet," she says, "is to reach humanity. To communicate— to be heard. The poet's purpose is simply to add freshness to universal truths."

Sallie puts all of her poetic faith in the individual. "In these overpowering times, nothing can be understood or dealt with except in terms of the individual. It is the individual concern that stirs us to action, and more than any other media poetry deals with the individual." According to her the purpose of great poetry is to "suggest true values to the individual, and to condition him to be receptive to the merits of such values."

She agrees that perhaps a new creative Renaissance is on its way, but she also strongly believes that the poet always has to face hardships, humiliations, and expense just to get a few words printed. "Faithful to himself and to humanity, the poet offers a warm hand to the world, as he has in all the horrors that have beset the human race on this planet. Wars, famines, plagues — these have been times when some of the greatest poetry was written."

Above all, Sallie believes that even the greatest poetry can at best offer only a suggestion. "Faith is in the individual; it can never be anything else. Poetry explains the individual to himself, allowing him the privilege of discovery."

Citing Andrew Wyeth's "Early October" as one of her favorite paintings, she says that Wyeth has done with the brush what she would want her poetry to accomplish. "There is an empty chair in the painting, and everytime I see it I know that he put it there for me. In essential he has left room for the viewer to wander in. In my poems I try to leave room for the reader. "Good writing is really not so until the reader makes it so, by fitting himself into some part, and by contributing in some integral way to the total poem, and the poet must be sure to leave the room."

A poem of Sallie's titled "Field Daisies," has now been published many times, and is often quoted by poets.

FIELD DAISIES

Bring them in if you must.
Your hands wither a whole witness.
The vase—certainly—put them there
Place out the brush; loosen words.
Hope for those.
But then again—the impossibility—
It may be praise enough.

When she speaks of the above poem, Sallie briefly glances at a vase full of flowers. "Why do we go out and bring them in the house, far from where they ought to be? But as long as we have brought them in we have to do something with them," she smiles "maybe try to write a poem, or try to paint a picture. However the fact that we fail in expressing, is the highest praise we can ever offer them."

When questioned about the new generation of poets, Sallie replies that "universal truths remain, but with each age new imagery, new forms, must come to the poet's aid in his attempts to communicate. She adds, that "this generation has to realize that truth is not to be to be uprooted, thrown aside; it is to be renewed and strengthened by each generation of poets. The poet should have the vision to place new facts without disturbing the old."

Faith often lies in the poet's heart and hands. He has the vision, and the strength to sift through the awesome human condition. Generations rely on this strength. A few lines of beauty and hope can yield large harvests.

Sallie Nixon is a poet in heart and thought, and she definitely has a hand in sowing some seeds of hope.

Ground breaking ceremonies for a swimming pool for the Beatrice State Home will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, April 4. and will be followed by a reception in the school auditorium.

Preceding the special program will be a meeting of the Beatrice State Home Association for Retarded Children. The meeting is scheduled for 10:30 o'clock in the morning and will be held in the hospital conference room.

A Television Fan? Then you'll like the "Radio and Television Review" in the "Sunday Journal and Star." You'll also find complete program listing and preview of next week's features.

The News Around Town

It's been a mighty busy week for the Lincoln Children's Zoo. The hub-bub of preparing for the Zoological Society Charter Dinner and the forthcoming campaign have kept the Zoo office buzzing.

But . . . if those lovely people at the Zoo thought that they could take a breather following the dinner, the joke was on them—or was it?

We don't like to point fingers, but lingering around certain business offices in Lincoln are some first class April Foolers. Beginning bright and early on April 1 calls began coming into the zoo—for Mr. Bear, or Mr. Fox—or Mr. Lion. Calls were left at offices to return calls to these gentlemen (or gentle-animals, should we say) with the Zoo telephone number. Surprise, surprise, and Happy April Fools Day—after all it's all in the 'game'.

* * *

Just when we thought the social front had been pretty well covered, up comes the merry month of May with some bragging about its activities.

We could tell you many other interesting things about May, but at the moment April is elbowing its way back into the social picture.

* * *

Everyone has heard considerable about "Love Story" which has been on the best sellers list for lo,t hese many months—the book, that is.

But the Colonial Dancing Club has borrowed the book's title for its party theme when the members dine and dance this evening at Hotel Lincoln.

The party planners include Mr. and Mrs. Al R. Dreier, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Probasco, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley L. Hawley, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Mowrer, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Yaussi, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edmunds Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Enersen and Mr. and Mrs. Homer H. Hahn.

Guest couples at the dinner dance will be Mr. and Mrs. William Zieg and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rodwell.

The News Around Town

It's been a mighty busy week for the Lincoln Children's Zoo. The hub-bub of preparing for the Zoological Society Charter Dinner and the forthcoming campaign have kept the Zoo office buzzing.

But . . . if those lovely people at the Zoo thought that they could take a breather following the dinner, the joke was on them—or was it?

We don't like to point fingers, but lingering around certain business offices in Lincoln are some first class April Foolers. Beginning bright and early on April 1 calls began coming into the zoo—for Mr. Bear, or Mr. Fox—or Mr. Lion. Calls were left at offices to return calls to these gentlemen (or gentle-animals, should we say) with the Zoo telephone number. Surprise, surprise, and Happy April Fools Day—after all it's all in the 'game'.

* * *

Just when we thought the social front had been pretty well covered, up comes the merry month of May with some bragging about its activities.

We could tell you many other interesting things about May, but at the moment April is elbowing its way back into the social picture.

Everyone has heard considerable about "Love Story" which has been on the best sellers list for lo,t hese many months—the book, that is.

But the Colonial Dancing Club has borrowed the book's title for its party theme when the members dine and dance this evening at Hotel Lincoln.

The party planners include Mr. and Mrs. Al R. Dreier, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Probasco, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley L. Hawley, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Mowrer, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Yaussi, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edmunds Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Enersen and Mr. and Mrs. Homer H. Hahn.

Guest couples at the dinner dance will be Mr. and Mrs. William Zieg and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rodwell.

a spring garden tour of the shops

March didn't quite go out like a lamb this year. In fact, with the high winds and light snowfall, one would hardly believe that we are already into April.

Old Mother Nature hasn't caught up with the calendar which tells us that it is spring — and after being cooped up all winter, we are all anxious for the time when we can be out-of-doors and enjoy the wonders of spring.

After all, the grass is getting greener and greener by the hour, and the buds on the trees are ready to burst into leaf any moment.

To whet your appetite for spring, we looked in garden shops this week, and came up with items of interest for the ambitious gardener — and also with some patio furniture and lawn decorations for those who like to relax and enjoy the lovely days that simply must arrive—eventually!

AT WILLIAMS NURSERIES AND GARDEN CENTER

Williams Nursery suggests that you begin planting towards the end of April or the first part of May. The ingredients for a perfect garden are to follow the advice of your dealer and add dashes of tender loving care and imagination.

The ground for both flowers and lawn must be carefully prepared before planting. Fertilizer and controls for pests and weeds are vital elements in maintaining an attractive yard. Watering the lawn is also important. In warm weather, lawns need one inch of water a week, and the lawn should be soaked deeply. Lawns should be mowed at least two inches high to allow the green growth to produce food for the roots.

We learned that among the favorite shade and ornamental trees are the Flowering Crab and the Magnolia-Soulangeana. Roses are as popular as ever, and Williams offers two year No. 1 western-grown roses, potted and growing in extra large clover set pots.

Accessories for the garden include standard bird baths, a cherub pedestal bird bath, gazing globes which are colorful glass-like globes on pedestals, and outdoor planters for either hanging or setting on the ground. Statues, sun dials and driftwood which is used in rock gardens, are also available.

AT MONTGOMER WARD

The spring-time weather teasers that we have been experiencing can only make us want to do away with the cold and bring on the sunshine, when we can enjoy breakfast on the patio and barbeque dinners.

Furnishing your patio can be a challenge as well as fun with the delightful, bright furniture now available. Redwood pieces have gained popularity because of their durability as well as their attractiveness. At Montgomery-Ward we found that you can choose various pieces with colorful decorator paddings to match each other. A 'tete a tete' is two arm chairs which are attached by a table in between. A redwood rocker would make a perfect setting for dad after a hard day at the office, or for mom when she needs a break. A chair and ottoman, as well as a chaise lounge in redwood also are available.

Family outings can take place right in your own backyard with a wide selection of redwood picnic tables and benches. Umbrellas for the tables have coordinated table cloths to match.

The popular director chairs are making the scene outdoors in prepared wood with a host of colorful canvas seats and backs that are removable for washing.

That nice shady tree in your yard that has endured the trials of our winter will provide a perfect spot for the new look in hammocks, which Montgomery Ward features in both fabrics and plastic.

And when it becomes warm enough to begin sunbathing, Wards can provide you with plastic sun lounges that lie flat, and fold up for travelling.

AT BRANDEIS

Wrought iron patio furniture is still "tops" for entertaining out-of-doors. This light and airy style can lend a party atmosphere to those summer luncheons or cocktails that you may serve on the shaded patio or at poolside.

The "ice cream" stand look that we found at Brandeis, of either black or green wrought iron comes complete with table and two chairs and is a flashback to the ice cream parlors of yesteryear.

One of the newest styles in wrought iron patio furniture is the Spanish or Mediterranean that features a swirling effect in the trim. This particular variety has black iron and a floral print on the cushions. The Spanish swirl is repeated in a sofa, choirs, and also in the accompanying cocktail tables.

By the way, Brandeis, also carries the ever-popular umbrella tables with the floral print umbrellas, and the yard furniture made of California redwood. The redwood chaises longues, setees, and club chairs have floral cushions that can't be beat for relaxing in the yard!

Two Life Members

Life Membership certificates were presented to two charter members of the Lincoln Soroptimist Club at the group's annual charter dinner on Wednesday evening, March 24.

Recipients of the life memberships were Mrs. Ernest L. Ruhter, a former assistant professor of oral histology at the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry; and Miss Selma B. Anderson, former secretary-treasurer of ABC Electric Co., Inc.

The certificates were awarded for 15 years or more of active membership in a Soroptimist Club before their retirements.

Will you be Traveling? If so, you will want to know of local news happenings while you are away. The carrier boy saves newspaper copies while you are away and delivers them in handy Vacation Pak bag upon your return at no added cost. Before leaving notify the Circulation Department of dates you will be gone.

ABBY: don't say anything at this time

DEAR ABBY: My husband just told me he doesn't love me anymore and wants to split up. I'm not sure why all this came up, but I still love him and don't want to split up. We have no children. He's a graduate student and I helped put him thru school.

He claims there is nobody else. He just wants a divorce. He also says that if we split up he wants to know where I am so he can come over and get his beard trimmed.

What should I do? Hang on to a guy who doesn't want me? Or tell him off and let him go?

TROUBLED IN COLORADO

DEAR TROUBLED: For the moment, don't do anything. A man who demands a divorce but wants his "ex" within shouting distance in case he wants his beard trimmed doesn't sound very mature to me. I'll say this for him, tho. He sure trusts you!

DEAR ABBY: My sister took up karate lessons on my mother's request for her own protection. My problem is that every time one of my friends comes over, my sister practices some of her karate on them, and they go home black and blue.

If I try to tell my sister to leave my friend alone she bounces me around the room and tells me to shut up as she is a year older than me. Can you help me?

LOSING FRIENDS

DEAR LOSING: Tell her she may have a "brown belt" or a "black one", but if she continues to karate your friends or yourself, you'll belt her! And then do it, Chop Chop!

DEAR ABBY: "SAD DAD" who wished he could get his 18-year-old daughter to shave her legs should send her to visit my family in Cuernavaca, near Mexico City. She would be in high style with her hairy legs.

My family is an old Mexican family of pure, unmixed Spanish blood. All the women are proud of their hairy legs, and would no more think of shaving their legs than shaving their heads.

At 17, I joined my brother at the University of Texas. When he noticed the hair on my legs (it looked like fur), he said, "Not here, sister. Shave it off, and keep it off?" I did, and soon learned that nearly all American girls shaved their legs.

When I returned to Cuernavaca, my mother and grandmother were scandalized at my hairless legs. They made me wear heavy woolen stockings until my legs were "furry" and presentable again.

When my fiance came to Cuernavaca just before our wedding and saw my hairy legs, he nearly gaged but said nothing. Of course, I shaved them the first night away from home, and have kept them shaved ever since.

LETTER FROM TEXAS

BRIDGE: quiz day

BIDDING QUIZ

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	1♠	Pass
3♣	Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠Q9754 ♥J82 ♦K96 ♣73
2. ♠A9863 ♥7 ♦Q43 ♣K842
3. ♠AKJ72 ♥953 ♦K984 ♣5
4. ♠AK83 ♥86 ♦J72 ♣AJ32

1. Pass. Although partner's three club bid certainly urges you to bid again, it is not forcing. It merely invites a further bid if you have more than the 6-point minimum ordinarily associated with a suit response in the one level. With no excess values beyond those previously announced, the best thing to do is pass.

2. Five clubs. Your hand is not particularly strong in high cards, but what you do have is well laid out. Not only is there good support for partner's suit, but you also have first round control of spades, second round control of hearts, and the queen of diamonds for good measure.

All these features add up to much more than a simple raise to four clubs, which you would give if you held, say, the queen of spades instead of the ace. The jump to five may stir partner into undertaking a sound slam contract.

3. Three diamonds. Undoubtedly your side has a game somewhere, but the best spot is at the moment uncertain. The diamond bid may be all that partner wants to hear to undertake a notrump game, and at the same time it also permits him to show belated spade support.

It is far better to bid three diamonds than three spades, for the failure to mention diamonds could result in bypassing three notrump. The inequality of the two suits is tentatively ignored for the sake of trying to find the proper contract.

4. Six clubs. Here you should grab the bull by the horns and bid a slam. North is known to have jumped in clubs with a far more solid suit (since you are looking at the A-J) and because he has at most 5 points in clubs he is bound to have considerable high-card strength in the red suits.

You can't tell exactly where the twelve tricks are coming from, but that shouldn't stop you from bidding the slam. Partner probably holds in the neighborhood of 17 points in high cards, bringing the combined total to only about 30 points, but North's club length and his other distributional values are highly likely to offset the high-card point count deficiency.

Why Grow Old?

Josephine Lowman

Q. I am 30 years of age and my eyes are getting so-called 'bags' under them. My friends kid me and I am self-conscious about them. I have gone to a medical eye doctor and been fitted for glasses, and a doctor who treats my kidney condition says these bags are not caused by that. Have you any ideas?

A. You have already covered two possible causes. I judge that your doctor feels that there is no organic or systemic reason for this swelling. I suggest that you take a brisk walk each day and also get plenty of sleep. There is also another possibility — allergies. You should investigate this.

Q. How do I know what size frames I should have when I buy sunglasses? I have read that you shouldn't wear round frames with a round face and I know that you shouldn't wear very large frames with a very small face or very small frames with a very large face, but aren't there some general rules for those of us who aren't extreme either way?

A. As a general rule the frames should extend about 2-3 of the way down your nose and should extend to the outer contour of your face at cheekbone level.

Q. I have a couple of problems I would like help with. I am in my middle 20s and considered attractive, but I have broken veins in my legs. Is there anything to do about these? Also my hair is turning grey very rapidly. Is there any way to stop it?

A. The little capillaries can be removed temporarily. See a dermatologist. I know of no way to stop greying. Hair specialists believe that regular scalp massage may help and vitamin B complex has been associated with this problem. Ask your doctor how much to take daily.

Q. I hear about how important calcium is. In what foods do I get this? I am afraid I will be calcium-poor.

A. Calcium is widely distributed in the food world. However, milk is one of the richest sources and many nutritionists feel that all adults should have two glasses a day unless there is some reason for not drinking milk, such as an allergy or some other special individual problem. Green leafy vegetables and meat also are good sources. If you eat a varied diet, you need not worry. However, if you wish to have extra protection, have two glasses of milk daily.

If you have an overweight problem or a high cholesterol blood level, drink skim milk or powdered, fat-free milk. You will get just as much calcium as if you drank whole milk.

Q. I hope you can help me with my problem. My face is very full. Is there any way I can lose weight just in my face?

A. The only way is by losing weight generally. You can make your face appear slimmer with the proper application of make-up and with the right hair style. Place rouge or blusher toward the center of your face and wear your hair high on top and close at the sides.

Q. I want to increase the size of my breasts. I have heard that hormones can do this. Is this true? If so, what kind should I take and where will I get them? I am very anxious to try this!

A. Female hormones, taken orally, will increase the size of the breasts to a small degree. However, they will return to their former size when you stop taking the medication. Physicians do not usually prescribe hormones just for enlarging the bust, because hormones are potent and do other things to the body, too. If you are seriously interested in increasing this measurement, talk with a plastic surgeon about the operation known as breast augmentation.

ABBY: don't say anything at this time

DEAR ABBY: My husband just told me he doesn't love me anymore and wants to split up. I'm not sure why all this came up, but I still love him and don't want to split up. We have no children. He's a graduate student and I helped put him thru school.

He claims there is nobody else. He just wants a divorce. He also says that if we split up he wants to know where I am so he can come over and get his beard trimmed.

What should I do? Hang on to a guy who doesn't want me? Or tell him off and let him go?

TROUBLED IN COLORADO

DEAR TROUBLED: For the moment, don't do anything. A man who demands a divorce but wants his "ex" within shouting distance in case he wants his beard trimmed doesn't sound very mature to me. I'll say this for him, tho. He sure trusts you!

DEAR ABBY: My sister took up karate lessons on my mother's request for her own protection. My problem is that every time one of my friends comes over, my sister practices some of her karate on them, and they go home black and blue.

If I try to tell my sister to leave my friend alone she bounces me around the room and tells me to shut up as she is a year older than me. Can you help me?

LOSING FRIENDS

DEAR LOSING: Tell her she may have a "brown belt" or a "black one", but if she continues to karate your friends or yourself, you'll belt her! And then do it, Chop Chop!

DEAR ABBY: "SAD DAD" who wished he could get his 18-year-old daughter to shave her legs should send her to visit my family in Cuernavaca, near Mexico City. She would be in high style with her hairy legs

My family is an old Mexican family of pure, unmixed Spanish blood. All the women are proud of their hairy legs, and would no more think of shaving their legs than shaving their heads.

At 17, I joined my brother at the University of Texas. When he noticed the hair on my legs (it looked like fur), he said, "Not here, sister. Shave it off, and keep it off?" I did, and soon learned that nearly all American girls shaved their legs

When I returned to Cuernavaca, my mother and grandmother were scandalized at my hairless legs. They made me wear heavy woolen stockings until my legs were "furry" and presentable again.

When my fiance came to Cuernavaca just before our wedding and saw my hairy legs, he nearly gaged but said nothing. Of course, I shaved them the first night away from home, and have kept them shaved ever since.

BRIDGE: quiz day

BIDDING QUIZ

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	1♠	Pass
3♣	Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠Q9754 ♥J82 ♦K95 ♣73
2. ♠A9863 ♥7 ♦Q43 ♣K842
3. ♠AKJ72 ♥953 ♦K984 ♣5
4. ♠AK83 ♥86 ♦J72 ♣AJ32

1. Pass. Although partner's three club bid certainly urges you to bid again, it is not forcing. It merely invites a further bid if you have more than the 6-point minimum ordinarily associated with a suit response in the one level. With no excess values beyond those previously announced, the best thing to do is pass.

2. Five clubs. Your hand is not particularly strong in high cards, but what you do have is well laid out. Not only is there good support for partner's suit, but you also have first round control of spades, second round control of hearts, and the queen of diamonds for good measure.

All these features add up to much more than a simple raise to four clubs, which you would give if you held, say, the queen of spades instead of the ace. The jump to five may stir partner into undertaking a sound slam contract.

3. Three diamonds. Undoubtedly your side has a game somewhere, but the best spot is at the moment uncertain. The diamond bid may be all that partner wants to hear to undertake a notrump game, and at the same time it also permits him to show belated spade support.

Peterson Sees No. 1 Issue As Leadership

The overriding issue in the mayoral campaign, according to candidate Erv Peterson, "is whether or not we have the city administration we need to move Lincoln through the next four years of strength."

"I filed for mayor because I am firmly convinced that the current city administration is not being directed for the best advantage of the citizens by the current mayor," Peterson said.

He added that he personally likes the mayor and admires his desire to serve the city.

"But he has not taken the lead in problem-solving that the mayor should," he contended, saying the incumbent in his opinion has "developed into a follower of policy not a forger of policy."

Peterson listed his nine key positions as:

—Put City Hall to work for the public.

—Create the climate for, and move ahead with economic and social advancement.

—Practice common sense zoning, and adherence to an updated comprehensive plan.

—Get business efficiency into city government.

—Stress maximum information to the public about city government, and encourage increased citizen participation.

—Develop an efficient bus system for Lincoln.

—Control taxes through efficiency.

—Assist City Council members and city committees.

—Unite the community behind a more vigorous housing program.

Mayor Says Charge Untrue

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said Thursday that a statement by challenger Erv Peterson that he has shown no leadership as incumbent mayor is factually incorrect and another attempt to avoid the real campaign issues.

Schwartzkopf said during his four-year term he has been active in housing issues and said his record shows it.

"I recommended an acceptable minimum standards housing ordinance and a detailed workable program to the City Council as well as hiring of a city relocation officer and the starting of a housing administrator's office within city government," he said.

The mayor added that there also has been close cooperation with the Housing Authority, support of a concentrated code enforcement program, enforcement of different city housing-related codes and the rental of city-owned housing within the path of the proposed Northeast Diagonal to low-income families.

Muggy Supports City Employes' Organizing Right

City Council candidate Robert Muggy said he feels city employes should be able to organize regardless of the outcome of a bill before the Legislature to kill the rights of public employes to organize.

Muggy said the employe gains a sense of being heard adding that "to say if the employes organize they will strike is just as foolish as to say if you drive a car, you will kill ourself."

He also said the people of Havelock have been given the understanding that the federal government placed such stringent regulations on sewer treatment that Lincoln could not meet them in time to build a treatment plant north of Interstate 80.

Muggy said that if this information were true, the Water Advisory Board would not have made the recommendation to build the new plant rather than to enlarge the present plant.

Breslow Backs Mental Health Care Facilities

City Council candidate John Breslow expressed his concern Thursday about general misunderstanding of what mental illness means.

Breslow, who said he supported increased facilities for mental health care, suggested more attention to "the borderline cases which differentiate between the mentally healthy and the mentally ill.

"Mental health, like physical health," he said, "can be improved by one's achieving good habits, environments and relationships."

"Local mental health care units which provide rounded services in the areas of diagnosis, treatment and consultation," Breslow said, "are essential in the fight against mental illness and deserve our support."

Hansen Favors Police, Firemen Overtime Pay

City Council candidate Richard Hansen Wednesday urged that police and firemen be allowed payment for extra hours rather than required like all other city employes to take compensatory time off.

Hansen said he did not feel the city should apply the same personnel rules to police and firemen that apply to the other city employes.

He said the present procedure has resulted in police officers sometimes accruing up to five weeks vacation.

"With salaries where they are, these men would welcome money instead of time. They cannot take five week trips to Bermuda on a policeman's salary," the local attorney said.

Murrell Receives Endorsement Of Optimist Club

City Council candidate Bill Murrell, a West O businessman, has received the endorsement of the Lincoln West Optimist Club.

Murrell, a charter member of the club, is the group's representative on the City-County Goals and Policies Committee.

Dick Van Horn, secretary of the organization, said that the club members feel very strongly that in view of the future growth and progress that Lincoln is certain to enjoy, "our governmental process need the watchful guidance of a Bill Murrell."

Murrell Wednesday lauded the police department's use of a helicopter for law enforcement and traffic surveillance. He challenged comments by council candidate Jerry Polick, who spoke out in opposition to operation of the helicopter.

Murrell said Polick's comments as to why he opposes the use of helicopters "reflects his lack of knowledge of this highly recommended new progressive police technique.

Mrs. Childs Says Housing Problem Is 'Critical Issue'

City Council candidate Mrs. Nancy Childs said that she feels the housing problem in Lincoln to be of vital importance.

"Consider the crisis faced by low-income families in need of housing during our recent blizzards. This critical issue is one which simply must be resolved, and I am convinced a solution is possible," Mrs. Childs said.

She said provisions for emergency housing are practically nonexistent.

"We simply must have the best possible cooperation and dialogue between the governmental divisions responsible for administering these programs," she said.

Sikyta Urges Planning For 250,000 People

Lincoln must prepare for a population projected to be 250,000 by 1985, City Council candidate Fred R. (Bob) Sikyta said Thursday.

"We can wait until problems and projects are critical, then solve them with stopgap measures. Or we can use a planned, programmed approach and solve them before they become critical to the growth and development of the city," Sikyta said.

He said that the most economical way is the planned approach, adding that "I won't want to delay actions, sweep problems under the rug or postpone needed actions as a city councilman.

Sikyta said such problems as the new sewage treatment plant for the Stevens Creek area, updated zoning ordinances, redevelopment of older areas in the downtown area and older shopping centers, and street and highway construction are problems which must be met head-on now.

He also said the City Council should not only be the legislators for the city but also the watchdogs on how the tax dollar is being spent in administration and projects.

"Government, like a business, can price itself out of the market. If inefficiency and poor planning take an excess of dollars, then the voters will turn on government, as they should, and cut it to the bone."

Cook Proposes Modernizing Zoning Policies

City Council candidate Steve Cook said that he believes "Lincoln's very complex zoning ordinances need modernizing if Lincoln intends to maintain and promote orderly growth and economic development."

Cook said such ordinances pertaining to parking requirements in both H-1 and H-2 districts are much too restrictive in a number of permitted uses.

He said the commercial community development concept should be explored and action taken parallel with community unit development.

The overriding issue in the mayoral campaign, according to candidate Erv Peterson, "is whether or not we have the city administration we need to move Lincoln through the next four years of strength."

"I filed for mayor because I am firmly convinced that the current city administration is not being directed for the best advantage of the citizens by the current mayor," Peterson said.

He added that he personally likes the mayor and admires his desire to serve the city.

"But he has not taken the lead in problem-solving that the mayor should," he contended, saying the incumbent in his opinion has "developed into a follower of policy not a forger of policy."

Peterson listed his nine key positions as:

—Put City Hall to work for the public.

—Create the climate for, and move ahead with economic and social advancement.

—Practice common sense zoning, and adherence to an updated comprehensive plan.

—Get business efficiency into city government.

—Stress maximum information to the public about city government, and encourage increased citizen participation.

—Develop an efficient bus system for Lincoln.

—Control taxes through efficiency.

—Assist City Council members and city committees.

—Unite the community behind a more vigorous housing program.

Mayor Says Charge Untrue

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said Thursday that a statement by challenger Erv Peterson that he has shown no leadership as incumbent mayor is factually incorrect and another attempt to avoid the real campaign issues.

Schwartzkopf said during his four-year term he has been active in housing issues and said his record shows it.

"I recommended an acceptable minimum standards housing ordinance and a detailed workable program to the City Council as well as hiring of a city relocation officer and the starting of a housing administrator's office within city government," he said.

The mayor added that there also has been close cooperation with the Housing Authority, support of a concentrated code enforcement program, enforcement of different city housing-related codes and the rental of city-owned housing within the path of the proposed Northeast Diagonal to low-income families.

Muggy Supports City Employes' Organizing Right

City Council candidate Robert Muggy said he feels city employes should be able to organize regardless of the outcome of a bill before the Legislature to kill the rights of public employes to organize.

Muggy said the employe gains a sense of being heard adding that "to say if the employes organize they will strike is just as foolish as to say if you drive a car, you will kill ourself."

He also said the people of Havelock have been given the understanding that the federal government placed such stringent regulations on sewer treatment that Lincoln could not meet them in time to build a treatment plant north of Interstate 80.

Muggy said that if this information were true, the Water Advisory Board would not have made the recommendation to build the new plant rather than to enlarge the present plant.

Breslow Backs Mental Health Care Facilities

City Council candidate John Breslow expressed his concern Thursday about general misunderstanding of what mental illness means.

Breslow, who said he supported increased facilities for mental health care, suggested more attention to "the borderline cases which differentiate between the mentally healthy and the mentally ill.

"Mental health, like physical health," he said, "can be improved by one's achieving good habits, environments and relationships."

"Local mental health care units which provide rounded services in the areas of diagnosis, treatment and consultation," Breslow said, "are essential in the fight against mental illness and deserve our support."

Hansen Favors Police, Firemen Overtime Pay

City Council candidate Richard Hansen Wednesday urged that police and firemen be allowed payment for extra hours rather than required like all other city employes to take compensatory time off.

Hansen said he did not feel the city should apply the same personnel rules to police and firemen that apply to the other city employes.

He said the present procedure has resulted in police officers sometimes accruing up to five weeks vacation.

"With salaries where they are, these men would welcome money instead of time. They cannot take five week trips to Bermuda on a policeman's salary," the local attorney said.

Murrell Receives Endorsement Of Optimist Club

City Council candidate Bill Murrell, a West O businessman, has received the endorsement of the Lincoln West Optimist Club.

Murrell, a charter member of the club, is the group's representative on the City-County Goals and Policies Committee.

Dick Van Horn, secretary of the organization, said that the club members feel very strongly that in view of the future growth and progress that Lincoln is certain to enjoy, "our governmental process need the watchful guidance of a Bill Murrell."

Murrell Wednesday lauded the police department's use of a helicopter for law enforcement and traffic surveillance. He challenged comments by council candidate Jerry Polick, who spoke out in opposition to operation of the helicopter.

Murrell said Polick's comments as to why he opposes the use of helicopters "reflects his lack of knowledge of this highly recommended new progressive police technique

Mrs. Childs Says Housing Problem Is 'Critical Issue'

City Council candidate Mrs Nancy Childs said that she feels the housing problem in Lincoln to be of vital importance.

"Consider the crisis faced by low-income families in need of housing during our recent blizzards. This critical issue is one which simply must be resolved, and I am convinced a solution is possible," Mrs. Childs said.

She said provisions for emergency housing are practically nonexistent.

"We simply must have the best possible cooperation and dialogue between the governmental divisions responsible for administering these programs," she said.

Sikyta Urges Planning For 250,000 People

Lincoln must prepare for a population projected to be 250,000 by 1985, City Council candidate Fred R. (Bob) Sikyta said Thursday.

"We can wait until problems and projects are critical, then solve them with stopgap measures. Or we can use a planned, programmed approach and solve them before they become critical to the growth and development of the city," Sikyta said.

He said that the most economical way is the planned approach, adding that "I won't want to delay actions, sweep problems under the rug or postpone needed actions as a city councilman.

Sikyta said such problems as the new sewage treatment plant for the Stevens Creek area, updated zoning ordinances, redevelopment of older areas in the downtown area and older shopping centers, and street and highway construction are problems which must be met head-on now.

He also said the City Council should not only be the legislators for the city but also the watchdogs on how the tax dollar is being spent in administration and projects.

"Government, like a business, can price itself out of the market. If inefficiency and poor planning take an excess of dollars, then the voters will turn on government, as they should, and cut it to the bone."

Cook Proposes Modernizing Zoning Policies

City Council candidate Steve Cook said that he believes "Lincoln's very complex zoning ordinances need modernizing if Lincoln intends to maintain and promote orderly growth and economic development."

Cook said such ordinances pertaining to parking requirements in both H-1 and H-2 districts are much too restrictive in a number of permitted uses.

He said the commercial community development concept should be explored and action taken parallel with community unit development.

Cancer Trailer Unique

A mobile cancer detection trailer — with specialists and nurses — soon will begin visiting Nebraska communities that might otherwise not have access to the unit's equipment and staff.

The trailer, a 60-by-12 foot structure on display in Lincoln Thursday, is the first of its kind in the U.S., according to Nebraska Regional Medical Program officials.

The state medical program paid approximately $32,000 to build and equip the unit and will finance the staff by a grant from Washington.

"This unit is unique in that it is the first mobile unit designed to screen for cancer of major target organs in man," said Dr. Henry Lynch, project director.

Lynch, who is a Creighton University School of Medicine professor, noted that the trailer's examination and lead-lined X-ray rooms can be used to detect cancer of the colon, rectum, uterine cervix, prostate gland, breast, skin and oral cavity.

The trailer staff also will provide information about some of the major causes of cancer and will instruct the public on how to aid in early cancer diagnosis, Lynch explained.

He said the tractor-pulled unit will spend most of its time in rural and underprivileged areas where any adult who desires will receive free cancer screening.

Dr. Harold Morgan, coordinator of the Nebraska Regional Medical Program, said the trailer and its staff should begin servicing the state within a month.

The trailer's staff, which will be headed by a cancer specialist, will be manned by members of the Creighton University Department of Preventive Medicine and Public Health.

Pen Inmates Sentenced In Fall Incident

Two of the Nebraska Penitentiary inmates involved in an incident last fall in which two guards were held hostage were each sentenced Thursday to an additional 18 months by Lancaster District Judge William Hastings.

Thomas Ralls, 22, and James L. King, 20, originally charged with being inmates detaining another, had pleaded guilty to amended charges of conspiracy in connection with the incident.

The charges stemmed from the alleged involvement of 13 inmates in holding hostage for some 20 hours prison guards Erwin Siemens and Vance Schrader for the purpose of compelling a demand.

The guards were released when other guards executed a surprise attack on the prisoners holding the officers hostage.

Steel Tubs Do Well

New York (AP) — While the bathtub market has remained relatively stable since 1950, steel has been getting an increasing market share. Armco Steel Corporation reports that over a million steel tubs per year are shipped to the home building industry, compared to less than a half million twenty years ago. The tubs are said to be less expensive than cast iron, and they are lighter and easier to install.

Faculty Senate At NU To Hear Visit Proposal

The University of Nebraska faculty senate will hear Tuesday a proposal to invite the public to visit classrooms and correspond with departments about course outlines.

The resolution, proposed by two members of the educational psychology department, has the support of the teaching council of the Lincoln campuses.

The professors are Royce Ronning, chairman of the department, and Clay Gerken.

The two say "it seems clear that many Nebraskans believe their university is becoming increasingly unresponsive to their needs and wishes.

"The university," the resolution continues, "is perceived as a self-serving enclave, sharing little of its important work and walled off from public responsibility.

"People whose own earnings provide major financial support are keenly aware of and puzzled by the distance that separates their lives from our own."

They propose "as a first step toward sharing the university fully," faculty members welcome visitors to classrooms "subject only to limitations of space."

And "subject only to limitations of available time," they suggest, departments should provide prepared outlines describing courses to "any citizen of the state who inquires and who sends a self-addressed, stamped return envelope."

"If we deny the validity of our fellow Nebraskans' perceptions," the resolution reads, "the very denial attests the legitimacy of their claims."

The meeting is set for 4 p.m. in the Love Library auditorium.

655 Expected At NU's Fine Arts Festival

About 655 students from 96 Nebraska high schools will be on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus Friday and Saturday to participate in the annual Fine Arts Festival.

This year's festival will include divisions in speech and music, according to Dr. Maxine Trauernicht, associate professor of speech and speech education, who will direct the Festival.

In the speech division, students may enter one of the following areas: one-act plays, oral interpretation of prose literature, oral reading of drama, interpretative public address, informative public speaking, original public address, extemporaneous speaking and poetry reading, Dr. Trauernicht said.

Faculty members will critique the selections and give instructions on improvement. The emphasis will be on a workshop learning idea with the faculty giving lecture-discussions after each event.

The music festival, directed by John Moran, professor of music, will feature a music career counseling program, recital appearances by outstanding college music majors, and critiques of original compositions by high school students.

The festival will allow interested high school seniors to audition with a music faculty member. This audition is part of the School of Music entrance requirements.

The University of Nebraska student senate has announced the names of the three students who will serve on the search committee for a new president of the Lincoln campuses and outstate activities.

The three are outgoing student president Steve Tiwald, an Arts and Sciences College student, John K. Hansen, an education major, and law student Eric Hultman.

Tiwald is finishing his one-year stint as president of the Associated Students of the University of Nebraska (ASUN). He and Hultman are from Omaha.

Hansen, of Newman Grove, has been active in the Free Speech Movement and in publication of the Informer, one of a number of "underground" student newspapers.

The three will serve on the committee with as yet unnamed faculty members and administrators, as well as a representative of the alumni association.

The 12-member committee will seek a replacement for Joseph Soshnik, who has announced his resignation.

Neer pleaded guilty to the charge last year and is scheduled for a trial during the present jury term in the federal court.

He is charged with nine counts of mail fraud, three counts of transportation of stolen securities in interstate commerce, and one count of conspiracy.

Neer has been free on $10,000 bond, while Strode has not been located, according to federal officials.

Human Rights Board Votes To Refuse Liquor Licenses

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Human Rights Commission Thursday recommended that groups which discriminate on racial grounds not be allowed liquor licenses.

The action came in response to a request from Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf for the commission to recommend as city policy whether private groups should or should not be issued a liquor license.

Voting against the motion were Mike Alesio and new commission member James Shelley.

Before Supreme Court

Alesio said that the matter of liquor licenses for private groups which discriminate is before the U.S. Supreme Court and out of the realms of the local bodies.

"The matter is a legal issue and not within our scope to say," he said.

Shelley said he felt an over-all policy addressed to the general problems should be adopted instead.

But a majority felt that discriminating organizations should not enjoy the privileges of a publicly granted liquor license, some indicating the loss of the license would bring economic pressure to bear to remove the discriminatory "whites only" clauses.

Local Choice Asked

Commission member Gary Hill said already the local Elks organization has written to the national president asking that the national convention this year vote to allow local organizations to decide whether or not to permit Negroes and other races.

The Elks especially along with the Moose and Eagles have been singled out locally for criticism.

All three are scheduled to appear before the City Council in regard to renewal of their liquor licenses, the date of hearing proposed for April 19.

The City Charter states that the city shall have a policy "to eliminate and prevent all forms of discrimination because of race, color, religion, sex or national origin and to assure equal opportunity for all citizens."

NU Group Appears

Appearing before the commission were representatives of the Human Relations Insight League at the University of Nebraska, who commented on their activities and future plans.

The group has been largely responsible in the past for picketing the Elks Club and announced plans to work on other organizations who do not have miniority group members at present through de facto discriminatory practices.

Linda McNickels, president of the group, said "racism must not be a profitable thing, which it is now."

Mrs. Carol Reilly, representing the Lincoln League of Women Voters, also said "a liquor license is a coveted public favor which the City Council has the power to influence, since it is their recommendations which are acted upon by the State Liquor Commission."

President Of Kiwanis Sees Club As Catalyst

More than 500 Kiwanians, members of the Nebraska-Iowa District, and their guests, attended a dinner honoring T. R. Johnson, president of Kiwanis International here Thursday.

Johnson, a Denver banking and finance executive and a 21-year veteran of Kiwanis, told the delegation that "Kiwanis should become a catalyst to get all organizations together to express one public opinion for the goodness of all."

He asked that each Kiwanian take "a refresher course in Americanism" and "become the vocal majority before it is too late."

Programs like Drug Alert, which "has helped enhance the image of Kiwanis everywhere," has been very effective in its first year, but Johnson said he only "regrets that we did not get into this project sooner."

Johnson said there are certain resolutions that mankind must make if today's problems are going to be solved. He said he believes in a personal relationship with the Almighty, adding that he "feels a man will lead a better life when he believes in something."

"We have done a very poor job in selling our product. Too many of our own kids do not have the slightest idea of what the private enterprise system is all about," he said.

"Our children have been taught to search for happiness, but too many times parents will give children anything they want, thus killing any desire they have had to be productive. The respect we once had is gone," he said.

"It is our generation that must correct these ills," he said, after listing increased crime, drug addiction, campus disorder and riots in the cities as the ills of our nation.

Johnson also received a check from Lincoln Kiwanis members to be used by the International Foundation for the Kiwanis youth organizations, Circle K and Key Club.

Mayor Opposes Eliminating City Sales Tax Power

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said Thursday that a bill before the Legislature to eliminate the 1969 authorization for cities to levy a sales tax "could cause the reduction of vital city services and if passed could create a critical financial situation for Lincoln."

"I was very shocked and disappointed to see the Legislature's Revenue Committee decide to sponsor a new bill after this same committee earlier had killed another similar bill," said Schwartzkopf.

The mayor said the city must take all steps available to oppose this repeal sales tax bill, and he will meet with the City Council Monday regarding it.

The city, he said, receives approximately $1.7 million a year from its one-half per cent levy.

"If this is taken away, it would require over five mills of property tax to replace the loss in the sales tax revenue," he said.

Eight Med Grads Set To Intern At Lincoln Hospitals

Two Lincoln hospitals will have eight of the 65 June medical school graduates who will do their year of internship in Nebraska, in their hospitals, according to the National Intern and Resident Marching Program.

The seven men and one woman, among 24 NU graduates, will do their postgraduate work in Lincoln General and Bryan Memorial Hospitals. St. Elizabeth did not receive any NU graduates in the matching program.

Bryan Memorial will have Douglas Curry, Gering; Richard Donaldson, Omaha; Richard Fruehling, Hastings; Barbara Hurlbert, Omaha; Leland Lamberty, Lincoln; Ward Newcomb, Chappell and Garold Paul, Bismarck, N.D.

Robert Morris of Wahoo will intern at Lincoln General.

Pollution To Rise

Los Angeles (UPI) — Water pollution from ocean tankers will increase drastically unless international regulations are established to insure safety, a Coast Guard officer said.

Troopers Pleased After First Meeting

Spokesmen for the recently organized Nebraska State Troopers Association reported Thursday that they are pleased with the results of the first formal meeting with State Patrol Superintendant Col. J. E. Kruger.

The president of the new association, Tom Roth of Lincoln, said Kruger has promised the patrol's leadership would "definitely consider our views as imput in future bargaining" talks and in forming future budget requests of the patrol.

Roth disclosed that directors of the association, representative of 150 of the patrol's 211 uniformed officers, have gone on record endorsing Kruger for his present position, appointed by former Gov. Norbert Tiemann.

Kruger has not yet been officially renamed as superintendant of the Patrol, by Gov. J. James Exon.

According to Roth, one of the key items the association is concerned with is a desire that officers receive some compensation for overtime hours worked in excess of the present standard 50-hour work week.

He reported that a comparison of patrol salaries with those of Omaha police officers was made to Kruger at the Wednesday meeting.

He said that the comparison favors the Omaha Police Dept., who work a 40-hour week and are compensated for overtime, while the State Patrol, working a 50-hour week, receives no overtime compensation.

Court Dismisses Suits Filed By 2 Pen Inmates

Seven suits filed by two Nebraska Penal Complex inmates, totaling $3.6 million, have been dismissed by the U.S. District Court in Lincoln.

The suits, filed by inmates Robert G. Nicholson and Jimmy D. Maddox, were dismissed by Federal Judge Warren K. Urbom because "affidavits of poverty filed with motions were untrue."

Urbom noted that the two inmates have $720 available in savings and trust accounts to pay the required filing fees and other legal costs.

Nicholson and Maddox had filed poverty affidavits alleging that they were impoverished and requested legal aid from the state.

The inmates' suits had charged public officials with conspiring to abduct them from Wisconsin law enforcement officials and to take them to Nebraska.

The two men faced charges in Nebraska, for robbery and assault with intent to rape, in connection to incidents in Thurston County.

Nicholson is serving a 15-year term for rape and a 20-year term for robbery, while Maddox is serving 15 years for rape and 10 for robbery.

Named as defendants in the suits were Gov. J. James Exon, Nebraska Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer, former Secretary of State Frank Marsh and six other Nebraska and Wisconsin public officials.

EQUALIZATION UNIT POSITION TO GROSSMAN

Lancaster County Commissioner William Grossman Thursday was re-elected chairman of the board of equalization which opened its official 60-day 1971 term Thursday and will run until May 30.

All persons protesting property valuations must file complaints with the office of the county clerk by May 10 and hearings will be held following that date.

The law provides that the 60-day period is the only time that valuations may be adjusted downward but the board may increase valuations at any time during the year.

Court Dismisses Suits Filed By 2 Pen Inmates

Seven suits filed by two Nebraska Penal Complex inmates, totaling $3.6 million, have been dismissed by the U.S. District Court in Lincoln.

The suits, filed by inmates Robert G. Nicholson and Jimmy D. Maddox, were dismissed by Federal Judge Warren K. Urbom because "affidavits of poverty filed with motions were untrue."

Urbom noted that the two inmates have $720 available in savings and trust accounts to pay the required filing fees and other legal costs.

Nicholson and Maddox had filed poverty affidavits alleging that they were impoverished and requested legal aid from the state.

The inmates' suits had charged public officials with conspiring to abduct them from Wisconsin law enforcement officials and to take them to Nebraska.

The two men faced charges in Nebraska, for robbery and assault with intent to rape, in connection to incidents in Thurston County.

Nicholson is serving a 15-year term for rape and a 20-year term for robbery, while Maddox is serving 15 years for rape and 10 for robbery.

Named as defendants in the suits were Gov. J. James Exon, Nebraska Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer, former Secretary of State Frank Marsh and six other Nebraska and Wisconsin public officials.

Crossover Primary Voting Is Rejected By Committee

A bill which would have permitted crossover voting in primary elections was killed Thursday on a 5-1 vote of the Legislature's Government Committee.

The bill, LB896, sponsored by Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, would have listed candidates of both parties on a single primary election ballot.

The committee sent to the floor another previously heard bill, Omaha Sen. Duke Snyder's LB1003. It creates a public building commission in Douglas County with authority to levy a property tax and issue bonds. It was amended to reduce from one mill to one-half mill the amount of property tax which may be levied.

Also killed was LB1007, which would give the governor the freedom to choose the director of the Department of Economic Development without a prior recommendation from the department's advisory committee.

The bill was apparently designed to clear the way for Gov. J. James Exon to appoint Stanley Matzke Jr. of Lincoln as his director.

Full-Day Session Attempt Fails

The Legislature attempted Thursday to initiate full-day sessions but found it wouldn't work.

Because at least four standing committees were tied up with executive sessions and bill hearings when the afternoon roll was called at 2 p.m., only nine of the 49 senators answered the roll.

In the absence of a quorum, the Legislature adjourned to 9 a.m. Friday.

Although only the Government Committee had scheduled formal hearings Thursday afternoon, the Agriculture, Appropriations and Constitutional Revision Committees also met.

Committee hearings on bills have virtually been completed and Sen. W. H. Hasebroock of West Point, speaker of the Legislature, said he hoped to have a full-day meeting of the Unicameral on Friday.

The Legislature has been meeting forenoons only since it assembled in early January. Afternoons have been devoted to committee work.

Increase Predicted

London (AP) — Total cargo handled by the Soviet merchant fleet is expected to increase to at least 215 million tons by the mid-1970s from 161 million tons in 1969, Novosti, a Soviet news agency, said.

Convention Vote Every 10 Years Is Sent To Floor

The Legislature's Constitutional Revision Committee Thursday advanced to the floor a proposed amendment which would submit to the electorate, at least once every 10 years, the question of whether a constitutional convention should be summoned.

The bill was sponsored by Sens. William Hasebroock of West Point and George Syas of Omaha.

The committee deadlocked on whether to send to the floor a proposed constitutional amendment which would clarify the state's self-defense law.

The State Supreme Court recently struck down a 1969 law which attempted to write a version of the self-defense law into state statutes.

Too Much Gusto

Bury, St. Edmunds, England (AP) — Jenny Beak, 22, put too much gusto into her part in The Desert Song, performed before a capacity crowd in a Suffolk theater. By accident she flung a three foot steel sword into the orchestra pit, just missing the first violinist's head but smashing his violin.

Firestone Ends Advertising Pact With Thompson

Akron, Ohio (AP) — Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. says it is terminating its account with J. Walter Thompson advertising agency because of a difference in advertising philosophy.

Firestone said it had been a Thompson client since September of 1969. It did not divulge the amount of its advertising expenditures but described them as "substantial."

Single Pollution Council Advances

A bill to replace the present Air and Water Pollution Control Councils with one environmental control council won Legislative committee approval Thursday.

The bill, LB839, was sent to the floor by the Agriculture and Recreation Committee in a productive executive session which saw disposition of 17 bills.

The measure was introduced by Sens. Loran Schmit of David City and Willard Waldo of De Witt.

The bill provides for a 21-member council with 16 of them appointed by the governor from present members of the Air and Water Pollution Control Councils.

Highlights of Thursday's session:

—Amended and advanced LB864 to designate the mourning dove as a game bird.

—Amended and advanced LB461 to provide that the governor or his representative shall act as chairman of the Game and Parks Commission with voting power.

—Advanced LB619 to provide for the control of prairie dogs as opposed to their extermination.

—Killed LB536 to transfer flood plan management jurisdiction to the Water Resources Department.

The committee decided to consider a series of bills dealing with natural resource districts at a later meeting.

Third Federal Air Quality Region Is Designated On Nebraska Map

State Air Pollution Control Director Walter Franke announced Thursday a third federal air quality control region has been designated in Nebraska.

The new region, called the Lincoln, Beatrice, Fairbury Air Quality Control Region, includes all of Lancaster, Gage, Jefferson and Thayer counties, Franke said.

Notice of the designation was received from federal air pollution control officials through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare regional office in Kansas City.

"This means special attention by the federal government will be paid to the local area" in the field of air pollution control, Franke said.

Draught Champion

Chesham, England (AP) — Pensioner Charlie Winfield, 94, is known as "the champ of the Chilterns" — no one can beat him at draughts. He's been playing 90 years and all his friends are fed up with losing.

Bolivian Consul Is Shot To Death

Hamburg, Germany (UPI) — A young woman posing as leader of an Australian folklore group shot and killed the Bolivian Consul Thursday in his Hamburg office. She escaped, leaving behind a white wig and a black bag containing a note reading, "Victory Or Death."

A police spokesman said the woman, aged between 25 and 30, fired two pistol shots at Consul Roberto Quintanilla Pereira, 43.

Crossover Primary Voting Is Rejected By Committee

A bill which would have permitted crossover voting in primary elections was killed Thursday on a 5-1 vote of the Legislature's Government Committee.

The bill, LB896, sponsored by Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, would have listed candidates of both parties on a single primary election ballot.

The committee sent to the floor another previously heard bill, Omaha Sen. Duke Snyder's LB1003. It creates a public building commission in Douglas County with authority to levy a property tax and issue bonds. It was amended to reduce from one mill to one-half mill the amount of property tax which may be levied.

Also killed was LB1007, which would give the governor the freedom to choose the director of the Department of Economic Development without a prior recommendation from the department's advisory committee.

The bill was apparently designed to clear the way for Gov. J. James Exon to appoint Stanley Matzke Jr. of Lincoln as his director.

Full-Day Session Attempt Fails

The Legislature attempted Thursday to initiate full-day sessions but found it wouldn't work.

Because at least four standing committees were tied up with executive sessions and bill hearings when the afternoon roll was called at 2 p.m., only nine of the 49 senators answered the roll.

In the absence of a quorum, the Legislature adjourned to 9 a.m. Friday.

Although only the Government Committee had scheduled formal hearings Thursday afternoon, the Agriculture, Appropriations and Constitutional Revision Committees also met.

Committee hearings on bills have virtually been completed and Sen. W. H. Hasebroock of West Point, speaker of the Legislature, said he hoped to have a full-day meeting of the Unicameral on Friday.

The Legislature has been meeting forenoons only since it assembled in early January. Afternoons have been devoted to committee work.

Convention Vote Every 10 Years Is Sent To Floor

The Legislature's Constitutional Revision Committee Thursday advanced to the floor a proposed amendment which would submit to the electorate, at least once every 10 years, the question of whether a constitutional convention should be summoned.

The bill was sponsored by Sens. William Hasebroock of West Point and George Syas of Omaha.

The committee deadlocked on whether to send to the floor a proposed constitutional amendment which would clarify the state's self-defense law.

The State Supreme Court recently struck down a 1969 law which attempted to write a version of the self-defense law into state statutes.

Too Much Gusto

Bury, St. Edmunds, England (AP) — Jenny Beak, 22, put too much gusto into her part in The Desert Song, performed before a capacity crowd in a Suffolk theater. By accident she flung a three foot steel sword into the orchestra pit, just missing the first violinist's head but smashing his violin.

Increase Predicted

London (AP) — Total cargo handled by the Soviet merchant fleet is expected to increase to at least 215 million tons by the mid-1970s from 161 million tons in 1969, Novosti, a Soviet news agency, said.

Firestone Ends Advertising Pact With Thompson

Akron, Ohio (AP) — Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. says it is terminating its account with J. Walter Thompson advertising agency because of a difference in advertising philosophy.

Firestone said it had been a Thompson client since September of 1969. It did not divulge the amount of its advertising expenditures but described them as "substantial."

Single Pollution Council Advances

A bill to replace the present Air and Water Pollution Control Councils with one environmental control council won Legislative committee approval Thursday.

The bill, LB839, was sent to the floor by the Agriculture and Recreation Committee in a productive executive session which saw disposition of 17 bills.

The measure was introduced by Sens. Loran Schmit of David City and Willard Waldo of De Witt.

The bill provides for a 21-member council with 16 of them appointed by the governor from present members of the Air and Water Pollution Control Councils.

Highlights of Thursday's session:

—Amended and advanced LB664 to designate the mourning dove as a game bird.

—Amended and advanced LB461 to provide that the governor or his representative shall act as chairman of the Game and Parks Commission with voting power.

—Advanced LB619 to provide for the control of prairie dogs as opposed to their extermination.

—Killed LB536 to transfer flood plan management jurisdiction to the Water Resources Department.

Third Federal Air Quality Region Is Designated On Nebraska Map

State Air Pollution Control Director Walter Franke announced Thursday a third federal air quality control region has been designated in Nebraska.

The new region, called the Lincoln, Beatrice, Fairbury Air Quality Control Region, includes all of Lancaster, Gage, Jefferson and Thayer counties, Franke said.

Notice of the designation was received from federal air pollution control officials through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare regional office in Kansas City.

"This means special attention by the federal government will be paid to the local area" in the field of air pollution control, Franke said.

Draught Champion

Chesham, England (AP) — Pensioner Charlie Winfield, 94, is known as "the champ of the Chilterns" — no one can beat him at draughts. He's been playing 90 years and all his friends are fed up with losing.

Bolivian Consul Is Shot To Death

Hamburg, Germany (UPI) — A young woman posing as leader of an Australian folklore group shot and killed the Bolivian Consul Thursday in his Hamburg office. She escaped, leaving behind a white wig and a black bag containing a note reading, "Victory Or Death."

A police spokesman said the woman, aged between 25 and 30, fired two pistol shots at Consul Roberto Quintanilla Pereira, 43.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

SPORT SIGNALS

★ ★ ★

By Hal Brown
Sports Editor, The Star

Some sports yarns you aren't likely to ever see, but that might have been carried by the AF (that's for April Fool) sports wire yesterday:

ABA Drafts Fourth Grader

MEMPHIS (AF) — The Memphis Pros of the American Basketball Association announced Thursday they had drafted a fourth grader out of the Lincoln, Neb., Little Fry League.

"We know he's not ready for the ABA as yet," a Pros' spokesman said, "But we figure that by the time he reaches junior high, he might be ready and we figure basketball will do more for him than a ninth grade diploma ever will."

Although the youngster drafted stood only 4-2, Memphis officials said they expected him to grow in the next couple of years.

Haywood Gives Up Game

SEATTLE (AF) — Spencer Haywood, whose basketball career has been surrounded by controversy since leaving the University of Detroit after his sophomore year to sign a pro contract with the Denver Rockets, announced Thursday he was giving up pro basketball to return to college.

"I was paid a great deal of money to play pro basketball," he admitted, "But in all the court action I've been through, I've noticed there's even more money in another field.

"With all the suing and counter-suing that's going on in sports these days, there's more money to be made as an attorney than as a player, so I'm returning to school in hopes of getting a law degree."

Papers To Vie With TV

NEW YORK (AF) — A group of the nations leading newspaper publishers meeting here said Thursday they would pool their efforts and money in an attempt to get sports events started at normal times and to do away with TV timeouts.

"We're getting fed up with TV setting ridiculous starting times for some events and with TV timeouts causing us to miss some editions with the game stories," a spokesman said.

"Whatever TV is offering the promoters for the right to dictate to them, we'll offer 55 cents more and we think the money-hungry sponsors will go for that added 55 cents."

Pope's Votes Come In

NEW YORK (AF) — The Associated Press said here Thursday it had received a special delivery air mail letter from the vatican containing the Pope's vote in the national football poll.

"He voted Nebraska No. 1," said Associated Press sports editor Bob Johnson, "and noted that not even he could vote Notre Dame No. 1 particularly with an Armenian Presbyterian doing the coaching."

Johnson also noted that the letter was postmarked Jan. 2 and he said postal authorities explained it had been delayed because the Pope had forgotten to include the zip code.

Carpenter Joins Ak-Sar-Ben

OMAHA (AF)—Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Tom Brock said Thursday he had received an application, plus the $12 membership fee, for membership in Ak-Sar-Ben from State Sen. Terry Carpenter.

"Before the application is approved, however, we have asked for a blood test on the Scottsbluff senator," Brock said. "We want to know if his blood is blue enough to be a member of our organization."

Carpenter, contacted at the Statehouse in Lincoln, would mutter only, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em. Besides, I wanted some of those free tickets to the horse races."

Group Opposes Dog Race Bill

Waterbury (AF) — The Waterbury City Council at its semi-annual meeting Thursday night said it was drafting a resolution to be presented to the State Legislature voicing its opposition to the proposed dog racing bill.

"We have been running dog races down our main street every Sunday morning after church for years," explained one city councilman (one of the two-man board), "And it's the only recreation we have here for our citizens.

"Our dogs are amateurs, racing for no money and we're afraid if dog racing is legalized in a pari-mutuel form, some of our dogs would be tempted to run for pay and we don't want that."

Successful Surgery For Hoist The Flag

New York (AP) — Hoist the Flag, his climb toward the top suddenly ended by a broken leg, underwent successful surgery Thursday but his recovery was not odds—on as were his chances in most races.

"We can't tell now of his chances for recovery," said Dr. William O. Reed, who added that the colt has passed through the most critical the recovery period.
period but that many things can happen.

"Hoist the Flag is standing up and is comfortable," was Reed's first report following a five-hour operation that C. Clark Jr.

The first operation for a fracture on a horse was performed in 1957, said Reed. Since then, an increasing number of horses have been saved from destruction, which at one time was practically automatic.

"Scientifically, we are much better equipped to save horses with serious injuries," said Reed.

One factor figuring in whether an operation should began Wednesday night at the veterinarian's hospital near Belmont Park.

Reed also said Hoist the Flag's breeding potential remains; that it is just a matter of nothing going wrong during Hoist the Flag, believed to be insured for about $500,000, shattered a pastern and broke a cannon bone in his right hind leg pulling up after a workout Wednesday morning in preparation for Saturday's Gotham Stakes at Aqueduct.

The decision to operate followed a consultation among several equine specialists and the colt's owner, Mrs. Stephen be performed is economics. For instance, a $1,500 claimer would most likely be destroyed.

A dramatic case of a horse making his mark as a sire after it was thought he would have to be destroyed was that of Your Host. He broke a right front leg in a race in 1951, recovered and sired Kelso, a five-time Horse of the Year.

Hoist the Flag was purchased for $37,000 as a yearling at the Saratoga Sales. He won $78,145 in a six-race career in which he always finished first, but was disqualified in the 1970 Champagne.

Despite only six races, Hoist the Flag's potential was so great his value had been placed at $4 million.

Stiff Competition At Kearney Relays

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Kearney — The 12th annual Kearney State College Relays will be held here today at Foster Field with seven state college teams entered.

Nebraska Wesleyan, Doane, University of Nebraska at Omaha, Kearney, Hastings, Peru and Chadron are the entrants with the first four expected to battle for high honors. No team scoring will be kept with the field events slated to start at 1 p.m. and the running events at 1:45 p.m.

Last year, Kearney won five events, Hastings four, Wesleyan three and UNO and Peru each won two.

Doane didn't enter last year but is expected to be one of the best teams competing on the basis of the Tigers' indoor performances.

Four winners in the field events return from last year with three from NWU. The other defending champion is Hastings' Scott Shelbourne in the shot.

The three Plainsmen are Harvey Meyer in the javelin, Mike Stone in the triple jump and Howard Wigert in the long jump. However, Harvey is the only one expected to retain his title.

Jim Ellis of NWU has a better jump in both the long and triple jumps so far this season than Stone and Wigert have. Ellis has a 22-6 mark in the long jump and 45-8¼ effort in the triple jump, both over the winning leaps of Stone and Wigert last year.

Plainsman Kurt Nielson has a good chance at breaking the 6-7 record in the high jump. Nielson has gone 6-8 indoors and 6-6 outdoors.

Another field event record in danger of falling is the pole vault.

Doane's Brian Meyers cleared 15-1¾ twice indoors and 15-0 once outdoors while the event was won with a 14-6 leap last year.

Most of the track events were either not run indoors or today will be the first time they will be run but the competition is expected to help break several records.

Tickets Rare For NU Tilts

University of Nebraska Ticket Manager Jim Pittenger said Thursday it appears there will be few, if any, new season football tickets available.

Pittenger said he has received 7,000 new requests for season tickets and does not anticipate many of those orders will be filled.

He noted last year there was a 99 per cent renewal rate and said it looks like the rate will be the same this year.

"That means there won't be any—or at least very many—tickets available for new orders," he said.

Individual home game tickets are also at the sell-out stage, Pittenger said, and the same holds true for the road games at Missouri, Kansas State and Hawaii.

There are still some available for the games with Oklahoma State at Stillwater on Oct. 23, and the Thanksgiving Day game with Oklahoma at Norman, Pittenger said.

Dog Race Bill Dies At Gate

By Associated Press

The Legislature's Constitutional Revision Committee Thursday killed a bill which would have allowed Nebraskans to decide whether they want pari-mutuel dog racing in the state.

The committee voted 5-2 to kill LB915 which would have put the question before the voters in 1972 as a proposed constitutional amendment.

In its hearing before the committee last month, the bill had been supported by Greyhound breeders while opposition came from the horse breeding quarter.

Player Dream Jolted With 75

. . . FIVE JUST ONE OFF PACE

Greensboro, N.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino charged through late afternoon shadows with a 67 and gained a share of the first-round lead Thursday in the $190,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament while Gary Player's dreams of a third consecutive triumph took a severe jolt.

Player, the tough little South African who won the last two tour events and the defending champion here, struggled in with a four-over-par 75 and was far back in the field.

Five more were just one stroke off the pace at 68.

National Amateur champion Lanny Wadkins headed a big group at 69.

U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin had a chance for a spot among the leaders but took a double bogey seven on the 18th hole and finished at 70, three strokes back.

The discouraged Player hit one out of bounds, once found the water and three-putted four times en route to the 75 that tied him with Masters champion Billy Casper, just back from an extended vacation.

"That's golf," said Player. "You have some good rounds and you have to have some bad rounds. No one ever played the game who didn't have some bad rounds."

The talkative Trevino hasn't won this year but has been beaten a total of only three strokes the last two weeks as Player took the titles in the Greater Jacksonville and National Airlines Opens.

The flamboyant Trevino closed with a rush in the deepening gloom on the 7,034 yard, par 71 Sedgefield Country Club course.

Trevino sliced a three wood out of the trees on the par five sixth hole, the ball plugging the green only eight feet from the hole. He stalked the putt in his characteristic fashion, then made it for an eagle three.

He gained a share of the lead on the ninth—his 18th. It's another par five which he reached in two and two-putted from 15 feet.

Barber, second only to Arnold Palmer on the money winning list this season and the record-setting winner of the Phoenix Open, had two-putt birdies on two par five holes, rolled in other birdie putts of 12 and 15 feet and didn't have a bogey.

He missed only two greens and saved par there with putts of 7 and 4 feet.

The taciturn Charles, a former British Open champion, made the turn in par, then closed with a rush, taking four consecutive birdies starting on the 14th hole, a par five that he reached in two.

He put a seven iron five feet from the flag on the next hole, ran in a 30 footer on the next and closed the string with a 10 foot putt.

Committee Sends Mourning Dove Bill To Floor

By Associated Press

On a 5-3 vote Thursday, the legislature's Agriculture and recreation committee sent the perennial Mourning Dove bill to the floor, but this time with a twist.

The committee adopted an amendment which would require a $5 permit before the hunter could set out after the now-protected bird.

The measure (LB864) is sponsored by Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway.

The proposal to make the dove a game bird has been renewed — and refused — in every legislative session since the bird was put on the protected list in 1952.

In a public hearing a month ago, the bill was supported by the Game and Parks Commission among others but was opposed by numerous private individuals.

Game Called Off

A baseball game between Lincoln Northeast and Seward Concordia scheduled for Thursday has been canceled and will not be made up.

—WORLD RECORD HOL DERS STILL FAVORED—

Aggies 880 Team Not Ready

Austin, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M brings its world record holding 880-yard relay team to the 44th Texas Relays today and Saturday, but Aggie coach Charlie Thomas says things aren't ripe for any record-busting this trip.

A&M tied the world record of 1:22.2 at last year's Texas Relays and went on to establish a new standard of 1:21.7 later in the year at the Drake Relays.

The same quartet of Dennie Rogers, Rockie Woods, Marvin Mills and Curtis Mills is back.

Curtis, who owns the world record of 44.7 seconds in the 440-yard dash, will be the key to the Aggie relay teams.

"We're not up to par yet," said Thomas. "I don't look for any record times. We're about two weeks away yet. We're not in top shape."

The Aggies will be hard-pressed in the 880 by Colorado and Abilene Christian. Thomas said A&M will attempt to qualify in the event without Marvin Mills, who is recovering from a leg injury. But Marvin will run in the finals.

"We want to save Marvin to qualify for the spring relay," Thomas said.

Thomas said the mile relay should be a dogfight between A&M, Rice, ACC and Texas.

"I believe the 880 is our best chance," Thomas said. "Steve Barre, our leadoff man in the sprint relay, is having leg problems and this could foul us up in that event."

Kansas State will be going after an unprecedented fourth straight victory in the sprint medley relay which featurs two opening sprint legs of 220 yards each followed by a 440-yard lap and a half-mile anchor leg. World record shot put holder Randy Matson will be on hand to take a crack at his standard of 71 feet, 5½ inches he put on the boards in 1967.

Also, Ralph Mann, defending champion in the Texas Relays 440-yard hurdles and world record holder at 48.8, will be back.

The Texas Relays is the first of the Triple Crown meets. The Kansas Relays will unfold at Lawrence, Kan., April 16-17 and the Drake Relays at Des Moines April 23-24.

Huskers Open Outdoor Slate At Texas Relays Saturday

Nebraska's track squad has at least one strike against it as it opens its outdoor season at the Texas Relays this weekend.

"We're probably at a disadvantage in that most of the other teams have already competed outdoors. We just got outside to practice for the first time Tuesday," says Cornhusker coach Frank Sevigne.

Nonetheless, Sevigne looks for some good performances from the Cornhuskers.

"All of our quarter milers have been looking good in workouts," says Sevigne. He looks for the mile relay unit to challenge for top honors on the relays circuit this spring.

With Greg Carlberg anchoring the distance medley and four-mile relay teams, the Cornhuskers figure to be competitive in these events, too.

"Jim Hawkins started coming around at the NCAA indoor meet and has been looking good in workouts. Dan Speck hasn't had a bad race for us yet," says Sevigne of the middle men on the distance medley unit which will be led off by Case.

The Cornhuskers will go with an all-sophomore cast in the 2-mile relay with Speck and Cimato being joined by Jeff Wisemiller and Roger Chadwick.

Nebraska's entries:

100—Horace Levy, Jim Novak.
120 H.H.—Gary Gressett.
Long jump — Hopeton Gardon.
High jump — Howard Burns.
Pole vault—Duane Sullivan.
440 Int. Hurdles—Gressett, Wes Leonard.
440 relay—Levy, Novak, Don Dunn, Leighton Priestley.
Mile relay—Garth Case, John Mottley, Bob Pierce, Priestley.
Distance medley — Case, Jim Hawkins, Dan Speck, Greg Carlberg.
2-mile relay — Speck, Larry Cimato, Jeff Wisemiller, Roger Chadwick.
4-mile relay — Hawkins, Lynn Hall, Bob Unger, Carlberg.

Some sports yarns you aren't likely to ever see, but that might have been carried by the AF (that's for April Fool) sports wire yesterday:

ABA Drafts Fourth Grader

MEMPHIS (AF) — The Memphis Pros of the American Basketball Association announced Thursday they had drafted a fourth grader out of the Lincoln, Neb., Little Fry League.

"We know he's not ready for the ABA as yet," a Pros' spokesman said, "But we figure that by the time he reaches junior high, he might be ready and we figure basketball will do more for him than a ninth grade diploma ever will."

Although the youngster drafted stood only 4-2, Memphis officials said they expected him to grow in the next couple of years.

Haywood Gives Up Game

SEATTLE (AF) — Spencer Haywood, whose basketball career has been surrounded by controversy since leaving the University of Detroit after his sophomore year to sign a pro contract with the Denver Rockets, announced Thursday he was giving up pro basketball to return to college.

"I was paid a great deal of money to play pro basketball," he admitted, "But in all the court action I've been through, I've noticed there's even more money in another field.

"With all the suing and counter-suing that's going on in sports these days, there's more money to be made as an attorney than as a player, so I'm returning to school in hopes of getting a law degree."

Papers To Vie With TV

NEW YORK (AF) — A group of the nations leading newspaper publishers meeting here said Thursday they would pool their efforts and money in an attempt to get sports events started at normal times and to do away with TV timeouts.

"We're getting fed up with TV setting ridiculous starting times for some events and with TV timeouts causing us to miss some editions with the game stories," a spokesman said.

"Whatever TV is offering the promoters for the right to dictate to them, we'll offer 55 cents more and we think the money-hungry sponsors will go for that added 55 cents."

Pope's Votes Come In

NEW YORK (AF) — The Associated Press said here Thursday it had received a special delivery air mail letter from the vatican containing the Pope's vote in the national football poll.

"He voted Nebraska No. 1," said Associated Press sports editor Bob Johnson, "and noted that not even he could vote Notre Dame No. 1 particularly with an Armenian Presbyterian doing the coaching."

Johnson also noted that the letter was postmarked Jan. 2 and he said postal authorities explained it had been delayed because the Pope had forgotten to include the zip code.

Carpenter Joins Ak-Sar-Ben

OMAHA (AF)—Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Tom Brock said Thursday he had received an application, plus the $12 membership fee, for membership in Ak-Sar-Ben from State Sen. Terry Carpenter.

"Before the application is approved, however, we have asked for a blood test on the Scottsbluff senator," Brock said. "We want to know if his blood is blue enough to be a member of our organization."

Carpenter, contacted at the Statehouse in Lincoln, would mutter only, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em. Besides, I wanted some of those free tickets to the horse races."

Group Opposes Dog Race Bill

Waterbury (AF) — The Waterbury City Council at its semi-annual meeting Thursday night said it was drafting a resolution to be presented to the State Legislature voicing its opposition to the proposed dog racing bill.

"We have been running dog races down our main street every Sunday morning after church for years," explained one city councilman (one of the two-man board), "And it's the only recreation we have here for our citizens.

"Our dogs are amateurs, racing for no money and we're afraid if dog racing is legalized in a pari-mutuel form, some of our dogs would be tempted to run for pay and we don't want that."

Fools Choice Is No Foolish Choice In Feature At Fonner

Grand Island — After five unsuccessful starts, Fools Choice made the sixth time a charm as she led wire to wire in claiming the featured sixth race at Fonner Park Thursday afternoon.

The Chestnut mare, owned and trained by H. J. Roberts, jumped in front at the break and led throughout but Quilla Sue pressed her at the wire and just lost in a photo finish. Fools Choice toured the 5½ furlongs in 1:06. 4-5 for the allowance scamper which attracted seven entrants.

Steered by jockey Bill Stallings, Fools Choice paid $3.60, $2.80 and $2.40 while Quilla Sue, ridden by Ray Correa, returned $3.60 and $2.80 and G.I. Native paid $6.00.

THREE TIED AT GREENSBORO

SUCCESSFUL . . . Hoist The Flag lies on operating table.

Successful Surgery For Hoist The Flag

New York (AP) — Hoist the Flag, his climb toward the top suddenly ended by a broken leg, underwent successful surgery Thursday but his recovery was not odds—on as were his chances in most races.

"We can't tell now of his chances for recovery," said Dr. William O. Reed, who added that the colt has passed through the most critical the recovery period.
period but that many things can happen.

"Hoist the Flag is standing up and is comfortable," was Reed's first report following a five-hour operation that C. Clark Jr.

The first operation for a fracture on a horse was performed in 1957, said Reed. Since then, an increasing number of horses have been saved from destruction, which at one time was practically automatic.

"Scientifically, we are much better equipped to save horses with serious injuries," said Reed.

One factor figuring in whether an operation should began Wednesday night at the veterinarian's hospital near Belmont Park.

Reed also said Hoist the Flag's breeding potential remains; that it is just a matter of nothing going wrong during Hoist the Flag, believed to be insured for about $500,000, shattered a pastern and broke a cannon bone in his right hind leg pulling up after a workout Wednesday morning in preparation for Saturday's Gotham Stakes at Aqueduct.

The decision to operate followed a consultation among several equine specialists and the colt's owner, Mrs. Stephen be performed is economics. For instance, a $1,500 claimer would most likely be destroyed.

A dramatic case of a horse making his mark as a sire after it was thought he would have to be destroyed was that of Your Host. He broke a right front leg in a race in 1951, recovered and sired Kelso, a five-time Horse of the Year.

Hoist the Flag was purchased for $37,000 as a yearling at the Saratoga Sales. He won $78,145 in a six-race career in which he always finished first, but was disqualified in the 1970 Champagne.

Despite only six races, Hoist the Flag's potential was so great his value had been placed at $4 million.

Stiff Competition At Kearney Relays

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Kearney — The 12th annual Kearney State College Relays will be held here today at Foster Field with seven state college teams entered.

Nebraska Wesleyan, Doane, University of Nebraska at Omaha, Kearney, Hastings, Peru and Chadron are the entrants with the first four expected to battle for high honors. No team scoring will be kept with the field events slated to start at 1 p.m. and the running events at 1:45 p.m.

Last year, Kearney won five events, Hastings four, Wesleyan three and UNO and Peru each won two.

Doane didn't enter last year but is expected to be one of the best teams competing on the basis of the Tigers' indoor performances.

Four winners in the field events return from last year with three from NWU. The other defending champion is Hastings' Scott Shelbourne in the shot.

The three Plainsmen are Harvey Meyer in the javelin, Mike Stone in the triple jump and Howard Wigert in the long jump. However, Harvey is the only one expected to retain his title.

Jim Ellis of NWU has a better jump in both the long and triple jumps so far this season than Stone and Wigert have. Ellis has a 22-6 mark in the long jump and 45-8¼ effort in the triple jump, both over the winning leaps of Stone and Wigert last year.

Plainsman Kurt Nielson has a good chance at breaking the 6-7 record in the high jump. Nielson has gone 6-8 indoors and 6-6 outdoors.

Another field event record in danger of falling is the pole vault.

Doane's Brian Meyers cleared 15-1¾ twice indoors and 15-0 once outdoors while the event was won with a 14-6 leap last year.

Most of the track events were either not run indoors or today will be the first time they will be run but the competition is expected to help break several records.

Tickets Rare For NU Tilts

University of Nebraska Ticket Manager Jim Pittenger said Thursday it appears there will be few, if any, new season football tickets available.

Pittenger said he has received 7,000 new requests for season tickets and does not anticipate many of those orders will be filled.

He noted last year there was a 99 per cent renewal rate and said it looks like the rate will be the same this year.

"That means there won't be any—or at least very many—tickets available for new orders," he said.

Individual home game tickets are also at the sell-out stage, Pittenger said, and the same holds true for the road games at Missouri, Kansas State and Hawaii.

There are still some available for the games with Oklahoma State at Stillwater on Oct. 23, and the Thanksgiving Day game with Oklahoma at Norman, Pittenger said.

Dog Race Bill Dies At Gate

By Associated Press

The Legislature's Constitutional Revision Committee Thursday killed a bill which would have allowed Nebraskans to decide whether they want pari-mutuel dog racing in the state.

The committee voted 5-2 to kill LB915 which would have put the question before the voters in 1972 as a proposed constitutional amendment.

In its hearing before the committee last month, the bill had been supported by Greyhound breeders while opposition came from the horse breeding quarter.

Player Dream Jolted With 75

. . . FIVE JUST ONE OFF PACE

Greensboro, N.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino charged through late afternoon shadows with a 67 and gained a share of the first-round lead Thursday in the $190,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament while Gary Player's dreams of a third consecutive triumph took a severe jolt.

Player, the tough little South African who won the last two tour events and the defending champion here, struggled in with a four-over-par 75 and was far back in the field.

Trevino, one of the last to finish in the gathering dusk, was tied at four-under-par with New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles, and paunchy veteran Miller Barber.

Five more were just one stroke off the pace at 68.

National Amateur champion Lanny Wadkins headed a big group at 69.

U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin had a chance for a spot among the leaders but took a double bogey seven on the 18th hole and finished at 70, three strokes back.

The discouraged Player hit one out of bounds, once found the water and three-putted four times en route to the 75 that tied him with Masters champion Billy Casper, just back from an extended vacation.

"That's golf," said Player. "You have some good rounds and you have to have some bad rounds. No one ever played the game who didn't have some bad rounds."

The talkative Trevino hasn't won this year but has been beaten a total of only three strokes the last two weeks as Player took the titles in the Greater Jacksonville and National Airlines Opens.

The flamboyant Trevino closed with a rush in the deepening gloom on the 7,034 yard, par 71 Sedgefield Country Club course.

Trevino sliced a three wood out of the trees on the par five sixth hole, the ball plugging the green only eight feet from the hole. He stalked the putt in his characteristic fashion, then made it for an eagle three.

He gained a share of the lead on the ninth—his 18th. It's another par five which he reached in two and two-putted from 15 feet.

Barber, second only to Arnold Palmer on the money winning list this season and the record-setting winner of the Phoenix Open, had two-putt birdies on two par five holes, rolled in other birdie putts of 12 and 15 feet and didn't have a bogey.

He missed only two greens and saved par there with putts of 7 and 4 feet.

The taciturn Charles, a former British Open champion, made the turn in par, then closed with a rush, taking four consecutive birdies starting on the 14th hole, a par five that he reached in two.

He put a seven iron five feet from the flag on the next hole, ran in a 30 footer on the next and closed the string with a 10 foot putt.

Committee Sends Mourning Dove Bill To Floor

By Associated Press

On a 5-3 vote Thursday, the legislature's Agriculture and recreation committee sent the perennial Mourning Dove bill to the floor, but this time with a twist.

The committee adopted an amendment which would require a $5 permit before the hunter could set out after the now-protected bird.

The measure (LB864) is sponsored by Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway.

The proposal to make the dove a game bird has been renewed — and refused — in every legislative session since the bird was put on the protected list in 1952.

In a public hearing a month ago, the bill was supported by the Game and Parks Commission among others but was opposed by numerous private individuals.

Game Called Off

A baseball game between Lincoln Northeast and Seward Concordia scheduled for Thursday has been canceled and will not be made up.

—WORLD RECORD HOL DERS STILL FAVORED—

Aggies 880 Team Not Ready

Austin, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M brings its world record holding 880-yard relay team to the 44th Texas Relays today and Saturday, but Aggie coach Charlie Thomas says things aren't ripe for any record-busting this trip.

A&M tied the world record of 1:22.2 at last year's Texas Relays and went on to establish a new standard of 1:21.7 later in the year at the Drake Relays.

The same quartet of Dennie Rogers, Rockie Woods, Marvin Mills and Curtis Mills is back.

Curtis, who owns the world record of 44.7 seconds in the 440-yard dash, will be the key to the Aggie relay teams.

"We're not up to par yet," said Thomas. "I don't look for any record times. We're about two weeks away yet. We're not in top shape."

The Aggies will be hard-pressed in the 880 by Colorado and Abilene Christian. Thomas said A&M will attempt to qualify in the event without Marvin Mills, who is recovering from a leg injury. But Marvin will run in the finals.

"We want to save Marvin to qualify for the spring relay," Thomas said.

Thomas said the mile relay should be a dogfight between A&M, Rice, ACC and Texas.

"I believe the 880 is our best chance," Thomas said. "Steve Barre, our leadoff man in the sprint relay, is having leg problems and this could foul us up in that event."

Kansas State will be going after an unprecedented fourth straight victory in the sprint medley relay which featurs two opening sprint legs of 220 yards each followed by a 440-yard lap and a half-mile anchor leg. World record shot put holder Randy Matson will be on hand to take a crack at his standard of 71 feet, 5½ inches he put on the boards in 1967.

Also, Ralph Mann, defending champion in the Texas Relays 440-yard hurdles and world record holder at 48.8, will be back.

The Texas Relays is the first of the Triple Crown meets. The Kansas Relays will unfold at Lawrence, Kan., April 16-17 and the Drake Relays at Des Moines April 23-24.

Huskers Open Outdoor Slate At Texas Relays Saturday

Nebraska's track squad has at least one strike against it as it opens its outdoor season at the Texas Relays this weekend.

"We're probably at a disadvantage in that most of the other teams have already competed outdoors. We just got outside to practice for the first time Tuesday," says Cornhusker coach Frank Sevigne.

Nonetheless, Sevigne looks for some good performances from the Cornhuskers.

"All of our quarter milers have been looking good in workouts," says Sevigne. He looks for the mile relay unit to challenge for top honors on the relays circuit this spring.

With Greg Carlberg anchoring the distance medley and four-mile relay teams, the Cornhuskers figure to be competitive in these events, too.

"Jim Hawkins started coming around at the NCAA indoor meet and has been looking good in workouts. Dan Speck hasn't had a bad race for us yet," says Sevigne of the middle men on the distance medley unit which will be led off by Case.

The Cornhuskers will go with an all-sophomore cast in the 2-mile relay with Speck and Cimato being joined by Jeff Wisemiller and Roger Chadwick.

Nebraska's entries:

100—Horace Levy, Jim Novak.
120 H.H.—Gary Gressett.
Long jump — Hopeton Gardon.
High jump — Howard Burns.
Pole vault—Duane Sullivan.
440 Int. Hurdles—Gressett, Wes Leonard.
440 relay—Levy, Novak, Don Dunn, Leighton Priestley.
Mile relay—Garth Case, John Mottley, Bob Pierce, Priestley.
Distance medley — Case, Jim Hawkins, Dan Speck, Greg Carlberg.
2-mile relay — Speck, Larry Cimato, Jeff Wisemiller, Roger Chadwick.
4-mile relay — Hawkins, Lynn Hall, Bob Unger, Carlberg.

Hernandez Injury Prevents Match

Copenhagen (AP) — A cable from Art Hernandez of Omaha, forced the postponement of a 12-round fight here Friday night between Hernandez and Denmark's former European middleweight champion, Tom Bogs.

Promoter Mogens Palle said the cable reporting Hernandez had suffered a leg injury during final training reached him less than 12 hours before the American middleweight was due to arrive here Thursday.

Palle said he immediately scheduled Copenhagen's K. B. Hall, the site of the fight, for two new dates—April 15 and 22 —confident that Hernandez will be ready by then.

Knicks Win Semifinal Playoffs

New York (AP) —Walt Frazier led a last-quarter charge that brought the New York Knicks from nine points behind to a 111-107 victory over Atlanta Thursday night to win their National Basketball Association playoff series.

The Knicks closed out the best-of-7 game Eastern Conference semifinal series, four games to one, and will meet the winner of the Baltimore-Philadelphia set.

The defending NBA champion Knicks fell behind, 91-82, on the torrid shooting of Atlanta's Pete Maravich, who scored 21 points in the final half.

But then Frazier went to work, hitting nine of his 25 points to pull the Knicks within 102-101 with 2:12 remaining.

4-Day Workweek To Be Tried Out At Bryan Hospital

A pilot program testing the four-day, 40-hour workweek will start Monday for employes in the cooking and baking area of the dietary department at Bryan Memorial Hospital.

The program, lasting for 12 weeks, will follow five work patterns, and if successufl, will be started in other areas of the hospital.

Expected advantages of the program will be increased productivity, work continuity, lower employe turnover, less absenteeism, a decrease in sick leave and easier recruiting.

Employe benefits will include a long weekend, savings in babysitting costs in cutting back from five to four days, and travel to and from work outside the usual rush hour.

241,540 State Tax Returns Are Processed

Internal Revenue Service (IRS) figures as of March 19 show that 241,540 tax returns for Nebraska have been received and of these, 144,985 returns will receive refunds of $31,407,785.

With only two weeks remaining for income tax filing, IRS figures indicate that over 30% of Nebraska taxpayers file their returns in April and last-minute taxpayers have been shown to make more mistakes, an information officer of the IRS said.

More than 2,200 taxpayer errors have been found to date, with over 1,000 of these occurring because of errors in listing Social Security numbers. Other errors most commonly found include missing, omitted or incomplete documents and signatures on the return form.

Figures for the same period last year show that 228,543 taxpayers had filed their return forms and 146,847 of these received $29,578,335 in tax returns.

4-Day Workweek To Be Tried Out At Bryan Hospital

A pilot program testing the four-day, 40-hour workweek will start Monday for employes in the cooking and baking area of the dietary department at Bryan Memorial Hospital.

The program, lasting for 12 weeks, will follow five work patterns, and if successufl, will be started in other areas of the hospital.

Expected advantages of the program will be increased productivity, work continuity, lower employe turnover, less absenteeism, a decrease in sick leave and easier recruiting.

Employe benefits will include a long weekend, savings in babysitting costs in cutting back from five to four days, and travel to and from work outside the usual rush hour.

241,540 State Tax Returns Are Processed

Internal Revenue Service (IRS) figures as of March 19 show that 241,540 tax returns for Nebraska have been received and of these, 144,985 returns will receive refunds of $31,407,785.

With only two weeks remaining for income tax filing, IRS figures indicate that over 30% of Nebraska taxpayers file their returns in April and last-minute taxpayers have been shown to make more mistakes, an information officer of the IRS said.

More than 2,200 taxpayer errors have been found to date, with over 1,000 of these occurring because of errors in listing Social Security numbers. Other errors most commonly found include missing, omitted or incomplete documents and signatures on the return form.

Figures for the same period last year show that 228,543 taxpayers had filed their return forms and 146,847 of these received $29,578,336 in tax returns.

Stock Market Is Lackluster

New York (AP) — Investors bided their time as stock prices turned in a lackluster showing in Thursday's slow trading.

Several sluggish attempts at an updrift were quickly squelched, and the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks finished off 0.49 at 903.88.

Declines and advances ran neck and neck throughout the session on the New York Stock Exchange. The broader-based New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks rose 0.04 to a 55.48.

Newton Zinder, an analyst with E. F. Hutton & Co., noted investors had retreated to the sidelines to await some concrete signs of which direction the economy will go.

Other brokers noted investors were hesitant to act with the cloud of first-quarter earnings reports hanging over their heads. There reports are expected to be disappoinaing.

Big Board volume was 13.47 million shares compared with 17.61 million Wednesday.

There were 647 advances and 708 declines out of 1,661 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 109 new highs and 16 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average gained 0.7 to 315.3, with industrials up 0.3, rails up 1.6, and utilities off 0.5.

There were 89 big blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the New York Stock Exchange, compared with 119 Wednesday. The biggest was 169,300 shares of Rheingold at 32¼, up ⅛.

Steel, motors, farm implements, and rails were mixed. Mail order - retail, chemicals, and oils were up. All other stock categories were off.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Weyerhaeuser, off 1⅛ at 55¾.

American Stock Exchange prices climbed. The Amex price change index was up .03 at 26.14. Volume was 5.36 million shares compared with 5.47 million Wednesday. There were 378 advances and 475 declines out of 1,121 issues traded.

Soybean Futures Decline Under Selling Pressure

Chicago (AP) — Soybeans futures came under selling pressure again on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday with old crop options declining nearly 4 cents a bushel for the second time this week.

Wheat, corn and oats advanced. Trade was mixed and very active, although there were periods of light dealings.

Soybeans were under liquidation with the opening bell. Some traders thought a government report on increased stocks of beans, oil and meal was a facor in the selling. There also was some selling that was influenced by the belief that this year's beans acreage will be considerably expanded because farmers fear losses from corn blight.

At the close, soybeans were 1⅝ to 3⅞ cents a bushel lower, May 2.96¾; wheat was 2 to 2⅝ cents higher, May 1.60¼; corn was unchanged to ¾ higher, May 1.46⅜; and oats were ⅜ to ⅞ higher, May 70½ cents.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Naive Investors Confused By Financial Cross Eddies

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Test Of Trend

It's confusing for the unsophisticated to comprehend the phenomenon of an interlude of falling security prices during what is heralded as a bull cycle.

But there are cross eddies in financial streams — rallies during predominantly falling markets, and declines during extended intervals of recovery. The test of whether the trend is bullish — not bearish — is whether the peaks in rallies each time rise higher. On the other hand, in bear cycles, the tendency is for successive bottoms to find new depths.

Market participants live in a variety of time zones. Floor traders want to make round trip transactions in a single market session; outside speculators may think in terms of days or weeks, whereas investors, looking forward to developing a nest egg for little Willie's college tuition or for retirement, may be thinking in terms of decades.

Ahead of Evidence

Prices respond to prevaiing emotions and opinions toward the shape of things to come. Recently during the prolonged rally in stock prices was running ahead of statistical evidence of business improvement. Buyers were motivated by the pictures (of the future) in men's minds rather than by visible change in business volume. But eventually in corrective periods, an attempt is made to bring speculative trends into balance with economic realities.

In contrast to pros, suckers are primarily attracted by the spectacle of rising stock prices. During declines, however transient, they lose interest. This makes Stock Exchanges an exception to the universal rule that markdowns in price tags stimulate purchases.

One offset to the psychology of buying on the way up — buying "dear" and selling on the way down — selling "cheap" — is a long term policy of "dollar averaging", that is, putting exactly the same number of dollars in precisely the same securities periodically — monthly, quarterly, or annually. This technique enables you to get more shares at bargain prices and fewer at inflated levels. Obviously, however, "dollar averaging" must be limited to a carefully selected list of securities with strong survival prospects.

Undue Hardship

The paradox of fighting inflation is that the hardship falls unduly on those least able to bear the strain — on those who are thrown out of jobs. To avoid such inhumane consequences, the best approach is preventive, that is, avoidance during prosperous periods of overexpansion of credit and of governmental spending. Once the damage has been done, equity requires that the burden on the unemployed be lightened by unemployment insurance and welfare.

As we contemplate even the current level of unemployment, which is indeed moderate compared with that in the depressed 1930's, the supercilious gestures on university campuses a couple of years ago against the cult of "affluence" takes on new meaning.

A one-time Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills expressed the goal succinctly when he admonished: "In dealing with the paradox of poverty amidst plenty, let's be careful not to abolish the plenty."

The essence of implementing Mr. Mills' advice lies in recognizing that improved productivity, not robbing Peter to pay Paul, is the constructive approach. In the present situation, there has developed an aversion to technology, which is berated for its sins against ecology. A balanced view would stress the benefits as well as the side effects of technology. The dramatic progress in lifting levels of material wellbeing in this country has reflected the creative mind in the realm of science, invention and engineering. Despite shorter work weeks and man-made restictions, productivity has gone up. Technology is the goose that lays the golden eggs. Technology through research is capable of mitigating or reducing adverse side effects. And such consideration for the environment should be absorbed in the cost of making things.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Omaha Youth Regional Boy Of Year Winner

New York (UPI) — Jeff A. Koneck, a 16-year-old member of the South Omaha Gene Eppley Boys' Club, was named a finalist Thursday in the 25th annual "boy of the year" competition of the Boys' Clubs of America.

He won regional honors in competition with candidates representing nearly 900,000 Boys' Club members in more than 900 Boys' Clubs in 47 states. Each candidate is judged on the quality and quantity of service to his home, church, school, community and boys' club.

As a regional winner, he is assured of at least a $500 scholarship from $8,500 in awards annually provided by the Reader's Digest Foundation for the "boy of the year" project. The national winner received a $4,000 scholarship.

State Farm Mutual Raises Auto Insurance Rates 9.9%

Fragile cars and increasing repair costs were given a large share of the blame for an average 9.9% Nebraska auto insurance rate increase announced Thursday by State Farm Mutual.

The company, the largest auto insurance writer in the state with about 20 to 25% of the market, filed the rate increase that will go into effect for policyholders whose premium payments are due on or after May 1.

A company spokesman said the largest share of the rate increase is on collision coverage. He said ineffective bumpers and delicacy of late-model cars contributed directly to the escalation of repair costs.

"When you get average damage of more than $300 in a five-mile-an-hour bump you have a very real problem — and a very real expense," he said.

He said collision rates are going up "because our policyholders in Nebraska are having more accidents and it's costing more to repair the damage."

Figures from 1966 show that State Farm policyholders in Nebraska averaged 96 collision claims per 1,000 cars insured. During 1970 that average rose to 102. During the same period, the average cost of paying these claims went from $166 to $229.

Insuring more than 189,000 cars in Nebraska, the company has adjusted rates twice in the state in the last five years.

One adjustment, in October, 1967, was a small rate reduction. Rates were increased in September 1969.

The effect of the adjustment will be a rate increase for owners of newer model cars, while owners of 1967 or older model cars will get smaller increases, or in some cases, decreases.

In Omaha, the adjustments for this full coverage protection will range from a reduction of 30 cents to an increase of $21.60; in Omaha's suburbs, from a reduction of 10 cents to an increase of $17.10; in Lincoln, from a decrease of $3.10 to an increase of $11.70; in North Platte and much of western Nebraska, from a decrease of $5.60 to an increase of $10.90; in Grand Island and most of the rest of the state, from a decrease of $2.70 to an increase of $13.30.

Stock Market Is Lackluster

New York (AP) — Investors bided their time as stock prices turned in a lackluster showing in Thursday's slow trading.

Several sluggish attempts at an updrift were quickly squelched, and the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks finished off 0.49 at 903.88.

Declines and advances ran neck and neck throughout the session on the New York Stock Exchange. The broader-based New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks rose 0.04 to a 55.48.

Newton Zinder, an analyst with E. F. Hutton & Co., noted investors had retreated to the sidelines to await some concrete signs of which direction the economy will go.

Other brokers noted investors were hesitant to act with the cloud of first-quarter earnings reports hanging over their heads. There reports are expected to be disappoinaing.

Big Board volume was 13.47 million shares compared with 17.61 million Wednesday.

There were 647 advances and 708 declines out of 1.661 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 109 new highs and 16 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average gained 0.7 to 315.3, with industrials up 0.3, rails up 1.6, and utilities off 0.5.

American Stock Exchange prices climbed. The Amex price change index was up .03 at 26.14. Volume was 5.36 million shares compared with 5.47 million Wednesday. There were 378 advances and 475 declines out of 1,121 issues traded.

Soybean Futures Decline Under Selling Pressure

Chicago (AP) — Soybeans futures came under selling pressure again on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday with old crop options declining nearly 4 cents a bushel for the second time this week.

Wheat, corn and oats advanced. Trade was mixed and very active, although there were periods of light dealings.

Soybeans were under liquidation with the opening bell. Some traders thought a government report on increased stocks of beans, oil and meal was a facor in the selling. There also was some selling that was influenced by the belief that this year's beans acreage will be considerably expanded because farmers fear losses from corn blight.

At the close, soybeans were 1⅝ to 3⅞ cents a bushel lower, May 2.96¾; wheat was 2 to 2⅝ cents higher, May 1.60¼; corn was unchanged to ¾ higher, May 1.46⅜; and oats were ⅜ to ⅞ higher, May 70½ cents.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Naive Investors Confused By Financial Cross Eddies

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Test Of Trend

It's confusing for the unsophisticated to comprehend the phenomenon of an interlude of falling security prices during what is heralded as a bull cycle.

But there are cross eddies in financial streams — rallies during predominantly falling markets, and declines during extended intervals of recovery. The test of whether the trend is bullish — not bearish — is whether the peaks in rallies each time rise higher. On the other hand, in bear cycles, the tendency is for successive bottoms to find new depths.

Market participants live in a variety of time zones. Floor traders want to make round trip transactions in a single market session; outside speculators may think in terms of days or weeks, whereas investors, looking forward to developing a nest egg for little Willie's college tuition or for retirement, may be thinking in terms of decades.

Ahead of Evidence

Prices respond to prevailing emotions and opinions toward the shape of things to come. Recently during the prolonged rally in stock prices was running ahead of statistical evidence of business improvement. Buyers were motivated by the pictures (of the future) in men's minds rather than by visible change in business volume. But eventually in corrective periods, an attempt is made to bring speculative trends into balance with economic realities.

In contrast to pros, suckers are primarily attracted by the spectacle of rising stock prices. During declines, however transient, they lose interest. This makes Stock Exchanges an exception to the universal rule that markdowns in price tags stimulate purchases.

One offset to the psychology of buying on the way up — buying "dear" and selling on the way down — selling "cheap" — is a long term policy of "dollar averaging", that is, putting exactly the same number of dollars in precisely the same securities periodically — monthly, quarterly, or annually. This technique enables you to get more shares at bargain prices and fewer at inflated levels. Obviously, however, "dollar averaging" must be limited to a carefully selected list of securities with strong survival prospects.

Undue Hardship

The paradox of fighting inflation is that the hardship falls unduly on those least able to bear the strain — on those who are thrown out of jobs. To avoid such inhumane consequences, the best approach is preventive, that is, avoidance during prosperous periods of overexpansion of credit and of governmental spending. Once the damage has been done, equity requires that the burden on the unemployed be lightened by unemployment insurance and welfare.

As we contemplate even the current level of unemployment, which is indeed moderate compared with that in the depressed 1930's, the supercilious gestures on university campuses a couple of years ago against the cult of "affluence" takes on new meaning.

A one-time Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills expressed the goal succinctly when he admonished: "In dealing with the paradox of poverty amidst plenty, let's be careful not to abolish the plenty."

The essence of implementing Mr. Mills' advice lies in recognizing that improved productivity, not robbing Peter to pay Paul, is the constructive approach. In the present situation, there has developed an aversion to technology, which is berated for its sins against ecology. A balanced view would stress the benefits as well as the side effects of technology. The dramatic progress in lifting levels of material wellbeing in this country has reflected the creative mind in the realm of science, invention and engineering. Despite shorter work weeks and man-made restictions, productivity has gone up. Technology is the goose that lays the golden eggs. Technology through research is capable of mitigating or reducing adverse side effects. And such consideration for the environment should be absorbed in the cost of making things.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Omaha Youth Regional Boy Of Year Winner

New York (UPI) — Jeff A. Koneck, a 16-year-old member of the South Omaha Gene Eppley Boys' Club, was named a finalist Thursday in the 25th annual "boy of the year" competition of the Boys' Clubs of America.

He won regional honors in competition with candidates representing nearly 900,000 Boys' Club members in more than 900 Boys' Clubs in 47 states. Each candidate is judged on the quality and quantity of service to his home, church, school, community and boys' club.

As a regional winner, he is assured of at least a $500 scholarship from $8,500 in awards annually provided by the Reader's Digest Foundation for the "boy of the year" project. The national winner received a $4,000 scholarship.

State Farm Mutual Raises Auto Insurance Rates 9.9%

Fragile cars and increasing repair costs were given a large share of the blame for an average 9.9% Nebraska auto insurance rate increase announced Thursday by State Farm Mutual.

The company, the largest auto insurance writer in the state with about 20 to 25% of the market, filed the rate increase that will go into effect for policyholders whose premium payments are due on or after May 1.

A company spokesman said the largest share of the rate increase is on collision coverage. He said ineffective bumpers and delicacy of late-model cars contributed directly to the escalation of repair costs.

"When you get average damage of more than $300 in a five-mile-an-hour bump you have a very real problem — and a very real expense," he said.

He said collision rates are going up "because our policyholders in Nebraska are having more accidents and it's costing more to repair the damage."

Figures from 1966 show that State Farm policyholders in Nebraska averaged 96 collision claims per 1,000 cars insured. During 1970 that average rose to 102. During the same period, the average cost of paying these claims went from $166 to $229.

Insuring more than 189,000 cars in Nebraska, the company has adjusted rates twice in the state in the last five years.

One adjustment, in October, 1967, was a small rate reduction. Rates were increased in September 1969.

The effect of the adjustment will be a rate increase for owners of newer model cars, while owners of 1967 or older model cars will get smaller increases, or in some cases, decreases.

In Omaha, the adjustments for this full coverage protection will range from a reduction of 30 cents to an increase of $21.60; in Omaha's suburbs, from a reduction of 10 cents to an increase of $17.10; in Lincoln, from a decrease of $3.10 to an increase of $11.70; in North Platte and much of western Nebraska, from a decrease of $5.60 to an increase of $10.90; in Grand Island and most of the rest of the state, from a decrease of $2.70 to an increase of $13.30.

Bill Is Designed To Employ Jobless

Washington (AP) — Overriding Nixon administration opposition, the Senate passed Thursday a $1.75 billion bill designed to put 150,000 unemployed into public service jobs this year.

Democrats, with help from some industrial state Republicans, turned back efforts to water down the measure or shunt it back to the Labor Committee.

The Senate vote sent the bill to the House where Democratic leaders have promised to push it, perhaps bringing it to the floor later this month.

Sponsors said they hope it can be on President Nixon's desk early in May.

But Republicans freely predicted in the Senate debate that Nixon would veto it as he did a similar bill in December, 1970.

Democratic managers of the bill said it not only would provide jobs at a time of high unemployment but also help states and cities meet pressing manpower needs for many government services.

Republicans answered that it would make only a small dent in the jobless total. They said that the Senate should pass instead Nixon's special revenue-sharing manpower proposal.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., chief sponsor of the legislation, contended it is essential for Congress to take immediate action on an emergency program with 5,442,000 unemployed in the nation.

Nelson said that the Labor Committee, in drafting the bill, had tried to meet most of the President's objections to the 1970 version.

Bill Is Designed To Employ Jobless

Washington (AP) — Overriding Nixon administration opposition, the Senate passed Thursday a $1.75 billion bill designed to put 150,000 unemployed into public service jobs this year.

Democrats, with help from some industrial state Republicans, turned back efforts to water down the measure or shunt it back to the Labor Committee.

The Senate vote sent the bill to the House where Democratic leaders have promised to push it, perhaps bringing it to the floor later this month.

Sponsors said they hope it can be on President Nixon's desk early in May.

But Republicans freely predicted in the Senate debate that Nixon would veto it as he did a similar bill in December, 1970.

Democratic managers of the bill said it not only would provide jobs at a time of high unemployment but also help states and cities meet pressing manpower needs for many government services.

Republicans answered that it would make only a small dent in the jobless total. They said that the Senate should pass instead Nixon's special revenue-sharing manpower proposal.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., chief sponsor of the legislation, contended it is essential for Congress to take immediate action on an emergency program with 5,442,000 unemployed in the nation.

Nelson said that the Labor Committee, in drafting the bill, had tried to meet most of the President's objections to the 1970 version.

Up with the rainy dawn. "Six hours sleep is enough," said the Regimen Salernitatum in year 1275. A good year for wine, a bad year for men. Six hours is not enough sleep for this man.

The human race is having a population explosion which alarms science. Still in New York the YMCA teaches girls how to get their men.

"Stand straight," says the Y. "Smile."

They give the chicks advice on low budget hair styles. How to dress. Care of the complexion.

"Avoid chocolate."

Thus the girls get their men. And the population goes boom! (Who's in charge here anyway?)

☆ ☆ ☆

We have a small population explosion here. Field mice move out of the field and move in with us when it rains. Who can blame them? For baby, it's wet and cold outside.

Still I don't want mice in the cellar. A pest control man comes around and discourages them. We've had cats, but in the house they are no hopers.

☆ ☆ ☆

If you are a girl in search of a man, we have the form sheets worked out for you.

A girl should marry at age 23. This is the time when most chicks score.

At age 18, chances are 93.5 a girl will get married sometime — better than the odds of a Nevada slot machine.

Thirty is a good age to marry. And a bad age not to. At 30 only 55.3 girls ever marry. Not even going to the Y for posture courses and kicking the chocolate habit.

☆ ☆ ☆

In Darkest Africa they're having a population explosion of elephants. And I don't imagine you get rid of elephants with a pest control man.

In Kenya, the government dug permanent water holes for the elephants. Elephants encourage tourist explosions — they come to see the beasts.

For reasons unknown to man, the water holes encouraged the elephants to have more baby elephants. So now they have 5,000 elephants — more than can live off the land. Elephants eat 200 pounds of grass a day.

Therefore the government (who dug the water holes) will have to shoot some elephants (so they won't drink water and reproduce).

Something weird about this. I don't know what.

Meanwhile back at our water hole. Girls should keep an eye on the target. At age 15 chances are 92.4 the boy will mary sometime.

A boy of 15 might not be much of a husband. Maybe you could deep freeze him after catching him. Let him age.

By the time a man is age 30, his chances of marrying have dropped to 75%.

Good age to catch a man though if you can. By age 30 you can tell what he's all about. Is he going to work for a living? Or hang around pool halls.

Anyway at age 30, one in four males is not going to go the marriage trip. You are wasting time giving him the benefit of your posture.

☆ ☆ ☆

But, be of good cheer. Last year 1.5 million girls made it to the latar. The man stood up like a man and said: "I do."

Most of them now have little population explosions of their own.

Sale Of Vodka Follows A Hero

London (AP) — Britain's consumption of vodka rose steadily during the years when Ian Fleming's fictional hero, James Bond, was popular. Bond's favorite drink was a vodka martini.

But when Bond began to fade, vodka sales tended to ease, said the Economist Intelligence Unit, after a liquor survey.
